KELLOGG PACT BIG PROBLEM AT ARMS MEET

Rest of World Looks to America for Exact Def-

Freedom of Seas Tradition
Meets Question of Food Shipments

Washington—(AP)—What does the Kellogg treaty really mean? Thus far the American government has avoided definition. But before the London naval conference can make much progress, the other countries will want to know from the United States whether it carries any obligations and whether America recognizes them.

Specifically the question which becomes the whole crux of limitation of naval armament and reduction is whether the United States, in the event that war breaks out between signatories of the Kellogg pact, will refuse to ship supplies and goods to the aggressor nation or whether it will follow the age-old tradition of freedom of the seas.

If America insists, as President Hoover recently indicated, on supplying food to belligerent countries, then a navy big enough to seize ships and prevent contraband from entering enemy countries will be necessary. France and Italy particularly want an answer to this point, for if the United States as the granary of the world and the big supply depot of the last war should refuse to trade with countries that have been proved aggressors or violators of the Kellogg pact, both France and Italy will feel comfortable about reducing materially the size of their respective fleets.

WOULD RESTRICT TRADE.
The question is not easy to settle because American producers whose trade would be impaired will want to know who is to compensate them for their forbearance or for the stoppage of trade. American manufacturers made tidy sums on foreign export between 1914 and 1917 and now that foreign trade has grown to large proportions, the question is even more materialistic than it ever has been.

The Soviet government told Secretary Stimson that his observations on the Chinese-Russian dispute constituted "an unfriendly act." If the United States refused to ship to a belligerent country, it might make

FAIL TO FIND GUILTY GANGMEN IN SHOOTINGS

Detroit—(AP)—After more than 24 hours investigation and questioning of suspects, police today were without definite information that might lead to the capture of the gang which yesterday seriously wounded Inspector Henry J. Garvin, head of the crime and bomb squad and an 21-year-old school girl in an attempt to put the police official "on the spot."

More than 20 suspects were caught in the police dragnet set in motion immediately after the shooting but none provided the investigators with substantial clues.

Garvin, although seriously wounded by several of the bullets which his assailants poured into his automobile, will recover. At Receiving hospital it was reported that the girl, Lois Bartlett, has a chance for recovery. She was shot five times.

DEMOCRATS STILL OWE NEARLY HALF MILLION

Washington—(AP)—A balance of $134,494 in the treasury of the Democratic national committee and outstanding obligations totaling $449,656 on Dec. 31, 1929, were reported today by James W. Gerard, treasurer.

J. R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican National committee, filed a report showing a balance of $135,363 in the Republican treasury and no outstanding obligations on the same date.

The reports were filed with William Tyler Page, clerk of the house in conformity with the federal corrupt practices act.

10 Movie Men Die When Planes Crash

Ships Take Fire 3,000 Feet In Air

Kenneth Hawks, Former Neenah Resident, Among Victims on West Coast

Santa Monica, Calif. —(AP)— The placid Pacific rolled gently today over the watery sepulchre of seven of the ten men who yesterday met a flaming death 3,000 feet above the sea in catering to a public whim.

The charred and shattered bodies of the other three were in a morgue, where sorrowing relatives will claim them before the world forgets.

They were making a motion picture thriller. Had they succeeded, the world never have seen, or known them. For they were behind-the-scenes-men-directors, cameramen, property men and airplane pilots.

Yesterday they soared out above the sea—two plain loads of men and cameras and equipment, a third plane waiting for a "stunt man" to drop toward the water with his parachute. They were to make a thrilling sequence in a story based on disappearance of Captain Alfred Lowenstein, Belgian financier, from a plane crossing the English channel on July 5, 1928.

The cameras were grinding and nerves were tensed for the final swoop when either a pilot erred, a flashing sun ray blinded, or a vagrant air current played a role as a messenger of death. No one lived to tell what it was.

Suddenly the planes whipped to-gether almost head-on. Wings splintered, crumpled and folded back. The last war should refuse to trade with countries that have been proved aggressors or violators of the Kellogg pact, both France and Italy will feel comfortable about reducing materially the size of their respective fleets.

COBBLER'S ONION FORECASTS A WET YEAR FOR STATE

Marshfield — (AP) — Maybe the onion made the prophet cry, but anyway, 1930's going to be wet—that is, from a standpoint of weather.

Ewald Benesch, Marshfield cobbler and weather forecaster who uses an onion instead of barometers and thermometers, says it's going to be a wet year. His annual forecasting rice completed, he knows it'll be wet, and Marshfield long ago learned the onion never lied.

During the last half hour of 1929 and the first half hour of 1930, Ewald performed his rite. He didn't go into a trance or anything like that. He merely cut an onion. The ceremony, which he insists gives him access to weather prophecy, is simple. He took a candle and trudged carefully down into the basement of his shoeshop.

Then carefully, he pared a fresh, juicy onion, he examined the skins. "Ah, I see a wet year," he crooned. "The skins say it will be a wet year."

And that, as far as Marshfield's concerned, settles the weather. Here's Ewald's forecast: January, medium slushy; February, dry and colder; March, wet and slushy; April, very wet; May, mostly dry; June, wet; July, mostly dry; August, mostly dry; September, very wet; October, very wet; November, medium and colder; and December, dry and cold.

COLD WEATHER AGAIN RULES IN MINNESOTA

St. Paul — (AP)—After more than a week of balmy temperatures the northwest's respite from winter was broken today in most sections with a drop to as low as 23 below zero at Bemidji, Minn.

DYNAMITE SHATTERS DOOR, NOBODY HURT

Philadelphia—(AP)—A stick of dynamite shattered the door of the home of Robert Farley, clerk in the register of Wills' office, today. No one was injured. The explosive had evidently been tied to the doorknob and equipped with a fuse. No motive was advanced by Farley, who has held his office for 20 years.

$30,000 FIRE THROWS 45 MEN OUT OF WORK

Finishing Department of Toy Company Suffers
Heavy Loss

Forty-five men were thrown out of work temporarily and a loss of about $30,000 was suffered when fire damaging the interior of the old Appleton Brewery Co. building which contained the finishing plant of the Toy Corporation of America, Inc., last night.

The loss to stock and machinery of the toy company was estimated at between $20,000 and $25,000 while the damage to the building was estimated by Nic Dohr, the owner, at $4,000 to $5,000.

The toy company's loss is partially covered by insurance and the loss to Mr. Dohr also is covered.

Officials of the Toy company were to meet Friday to discuss plans for securing new machinery so that operations could be started again soon. William Wright, general manager of the company, said Friday morning that he hoped the company would be able to resume operations within a month.

PRESIDENT HERE
Otto Kaufman, New York, president of the company, arrived in Appleton about midnight for an inspection trip at the plant here. He arrived just in time to see the firemen leaving the building after the fire had been entirely put out and all danger of another outbreak had passed.

Mr. Dohr said Friday morning that plans are already underway for repairing the building and fitting it for use.

The blaze, which was believed to have started from spontaneous combustion on the second floor of the building, was not discovered until it had spread through the third and first floors. An alarm was turned in when two women, passing by the building noticed smoke pouring from the windows. Their names were not learned.

CALL OUT RESERVES
Fire Chief George P. McGillion was in the hospital, where he had been for several days for treatments and directed all automobiles to other streets so that the firemen could not be interfered with.

A squad of police under Police Chief George J. Prim closed River, Lincoln and Oneida streets to traffic and directed all automobiles to other streets so that the firemen could not be interfered with.

Within a short time Assistant Chief Reidler had 14 more men on the job and he then sent one of the trucks and five men back to the department for protection in case another fire should start.

Marie Jose Ready To Quit Belgium Tonight For Rome

Royal Romance to Be Culminated When Princess
Weds Prince Humbert

Brussels—(AP)—All Belgium was thrilled today as Princess Marie Jose, 23-year-old daughter of the Belgian monarch, made last minute preparations for her journey to Rome where she will be married to Crown Prince Humbert.

A royal romance will ride on the sumptuously appointed Italian train that will carry the princess and the Belgian royal family to Italy, for the princess and her fiancé met 12 years ago when they were just children and from that day to this an affection has lasted that has warmed the hearts of the Belgian people.

The train abroad which the Belgian family will travel will leave Brussels late this evening and will be guarded carefully all of the way across Europe to forestall any mishaps. Particular care has been taken because of the recent attempt against the life of Prince Humbert in Brussels and the discovery of a plot among extremists to prevent the marriage.

But whatever the political aspects of the coming festivities, they will have the memories of a meeting 12 years ago for the princess and the Italian crown prince.

They first met during the World war in the autumn of 1917 when the king and queen of the Belgians visited the Italian battlefield. The young princess hardly in her teens, at the time, was a pupil at the boarding school of the Reale Istituto Delfa Sotissima Annunziata in Florence, more commonly known as the "Poggio Imperiale."

"Mademoiselle," as Princess Marie Jose was called at the express wish of her mother, went, in company of her English governess, Miss Hamersley, to Fauda where Marie Jose and Prince Humbert spent several days together in close association.

It was during these days that the 11-year-old blonde, curly haired princess from the north, fell in love with her princely playmate, who was then only 10.

18 THROWN INTO WATER AS TUG AND FERRY CRASH

New York—(AP)—Running in a dense fog which threw her two miles off her course, the ferryboat William R. Hearst crashed into the tugboat Mutual today at Beard's dry dock, Brooklyn, throwing 18 men into the water and injuring four seriously.

The tug boat, which was tied up at the breakwater, sank shortly after the collision. Several other tugs which had tied up at the breakwater rescued all of the men.

The damage to the ferry, which had 150 passengers aboard, was only slight.

FILIPINOS SEEKING ISLANDS' FREEDOM

In dependence Commission to Appear Before Congress-sional Group

Washington—(AP)—A Philippine independence commission arrived here today to prepare for congressional committee hearings on various independence resolutions. The first hearing will be held before the senate territories committee, Jan. 15.

The commission sent to strive for liberation of the islands included Manuel Roxas, speaker of the Philippine House of Representatives and commission head; Dr. Pedro Gil, minority leader of the house; Jose Castillo, Manila attorney and Marcial Lichauco, technical advisers to the commission.

Arriving at the Union station at 8 o'clock a. m., the commissioners were greeted by a large group of Washington residents headed by Pedro Guevarra, resident commissioner and Mrs. Roxas who came to Washington from a European tour recently to await her husband's arrival.

Others in the welcoming party were: Mrs. Guevarra and Miss Nena Guevarra, Mrs. Oscar Vicente, Bunuan, director of the Philippine Press Bureau, and Mrs. Bunuan and Cristobal Zafra, C. Elito Tobiano, Jose A. de Jesus, Manuel G. Zamora, Mauro Baradi, and Luis Villalobos of the Washington Filipino club.

Passengers were landed safely by the ship's boats. The ferryboat was towed to the pier and the crew who were understood to be still aboard.

The steamer is owned by the Compania Sudamericana de Vapores and has a register of 1,552 tons. It was in the South American west coast trade.

MELLON SAYS RUM SLAYINGS ARE JUSTIFIED

Coast Guard "Could Not Do
Less Than They Did,"
He Maintains

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Mellon today asserted that the coast guard had done nothing that was not justified and authorized under the law in firing on the liquor smuggling boat, Black Duck, which resulted in the death of three men.

Mr. Mellon's statement was in line with those previously made by Rear Admiral Billard, coast guard commander, and Assistant Secretary Lowman both of whom had defended the coast guard.

The secretary of the treasury said that as much as the shooting was regretted, reports to him indicated that the coast guard was acting "entirely within their instructions and observing their duty in what they did."

"They gave warning, the boat was endeavoring to escape and they could not do less than they did," he added.

TRIED TO RUN LIQUOR
The secretary, who returned to Washington today from a sea trip in Bahama waters said that the coast guard had information that the smugglers were attempting to run liquor into the United States and concentrated coast guard boats in that vicinity.

The Black Duck, he said, was near the coast of Newport. "The coast guard," Mr. Mellon said, "is authorized under the law to use force to stop boats. If they could not shoot they could not carry out their instructions. They gave warning and pursue and if a boat does not stop it is necessary to use force. In these cases the men were violators of the law. They were smuggling liquor and it was the coast guard's duty to capture them."

Assessing that all reports of the coast guard indicated that "everything was regular and that they were justified in what they were doing," Mr. Mellon added, "Our men only use force where it is absolutely necessary."

"The coast guard gave this boat warning and it was endeavoring to escape and the coast guard could not do less than they did."

Discussing enforcement in general, the secretary said that he favored the transfer of the entire prohibition police to the jurisdiction of the treasury to the jurisdiction of the department of justice. He pointed out that at present the department of justice prosecutes the cases that are developed by the prohibition bureau and expressed the belief that better cooperation could be obtained if both divisions were under the same department.

Detroit—(AP)—The disappearance of three witnesses in the trial of Martin Quinn, proprietor of the Study club, on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the fire and bank there Sept. 21, was announced by Duncan W. McLean, assistant prosecutor today.

The three were employees of the club when the fire broke out in the building, resulting in the deaths of 23 persons.

SEARCH OF HOUSE WITHOUT WARRANT MAY BE MADE CRIME

Washington—(AP)—A law which would make it a felony for federal prohibition agents to search private dwellings without search warrants will be sought by Representative Schafer, Republican, of Wisconsin.

At present, the misdemeanor penalty is $1,000 fine for the first offense and $1,000 fine and a maximum of one year in jail for the second offense. Schafer would have the penalty from one to ten years in a federal prison.

The Wisconsin member, a leader of the house wet bloc, said today he would ask the attorney general for a list of all prohibition cases which had been dismissed or nolle prossed because searches and seizures had been made without proper warrants and that he assumed the president's crime commission was obtaining facts on this phase of the problem.

CHURCHMAN WOULD AID FLASK TOTERS

Sees Invasion of Personal
Liberty in Arrests at Milwaukee

Milwaukee—(AP)—The Rev. Benjamin P. Gaylord, presiding bishop of the Evangelical church, believes Milwaukee's liberals should aid the young men arraigned yesterday by drug agents for carrying flasks.

"If these young men are convicted of carrying flasks, a dangerous precedent for the invasion of personal liberty will be set," he declared. He offered to act as custodian for a fund to employ "the best legal talent" to defend the youths.

Milwaukee—(AP)—A treat at "hip flask toters" will be arrested and a regular system of inspection for Milwaukee county roadhouses has instituted by the federal prohibition department, gave added significance today to the New Year's dry crusade.

W. Frank Cunningham, district administrator, said that "there is a popular impression that we cannot seize a bottle if it is not publicly displayed. That impression is erroneous. It is necessary that we place a man under arrest but there is nothing to prevent an arrest when we know he is violating the law."

The prohibition plan was announced after three "hippers" had been held for trial on a charge of possession. Four others, including Joe Gerundy of 2135 Sherman-bldg., Madison, did not appear.

GUNMEN'S NEST SEIZED, THINK HOLDUP FOILED

Springfield, Ill. —(AP)— Breaking up a gunmen's nest half a block from the governor's mansion here yesterday, police believed today that they forestalled a holdup of the Springfield postoffice.

From the windows of the gangsters' suite of rooms, where four men and two women were arrested, activity about the temporary postoffice could be watched.

Four latest type sub-machine guns, revolvers, shotguns, a quantity of ammunition, and other devices which police are holding for examination, were found in the place where the gunmen were supposed.

Police advanced the idea that the rooms had been headquarters for the gang for three months past, during which time they are suspected of having committed several holdups in central and southern Illinois.

The first of the three arrests came when police were asked to look for two automobiles which had been used in a holdup.

One of the women arrested, said they had all been engaged in some business, and that they had intended to leave Springfield yesterday for Indianapolis, but one of their automobiles had been seized.

When $5,000 and $10,000 in cash were found in mail boxes in the Springfield postoffice last night, it was a theory of the police that a holdup of the truck was foiled just as an attempt was about to be made.

PLEA TO VOTE IN FEBRUARY IS REJECTED

Four Aldermen Deny Request for Special Election in February

COUNCIL GETS LETTER
2,700 Names on Petitions
Asking for Vote on Manager Plan

The common council last night practically guaranteed itself at least another year's existence.

It rejected a resolution proposing a special election on Feb. 11 on adoption of the city manager form of government, introduced by Alderman George Packard of the First ward, and selected April 1 as the date for the referendum. This is the date of the regular spring election.

Alderman Packard's resolution was introduced immediately after a letter from the City Manager Campaign committee was read to the council by Carl J. Becker, city clerk, who had certified the petitions containing approximately 2,700 signatures.

Six aldermen signed the resolution and four voted against it. Two aldermen, W. H. Vanderheyden, Fifth ward, and George Richard, Third ward, were absent. The latter was present when the meeting opened but left before the vote. Nine votes were necessary to fix an election date prior to April.

For a February election—G. H. Packard, Mike Steinhauer, First ward; C. D. Thompson, Second ward; R. F. McGillan, Fourth ward; Richard Heffke and Philip Vost, Sixth ward.

No—Alderman P. Earl, Second ward; Walter Gmeiner, Third ward; George Heffke, Fifth ward; Harry Friebe, Sixth ward.

RESCIND RESOLUTION

Following introduction of the resolution, Mayor A. C. Rula told the council that A. C. Bosser, city attorney, had suggested that, before the council voted, it rescind its action of the last meeting setting the date of the special election on the same days as the spring election. Alderman's motion that this be done was carried. Aldermen Brautigan, Gmeiner, McGillan and Friebe voting no.

If Alderman Packard's resolution calling for the special election Feb. 11 had been adopted and if the voters approved the city manager form of government, the people would have elected a council under the new plan at the April election and the new government would have become operative the same month.

With the special election falling on the same date as the spring election, however, the new council could not be elected until the spring election of 1931, provided the manager form is approved, and the aldermen will remain in office at least another year.

"I do not think the majority of the people want the special election next month," Alderman McGillan said.

"Not only is the city heavily in debt now, but the February election would cost the city approximately $1,500, which would be paid was."

FEARS FOR RECORD
"And here is something else to consider. If a city manager should go into office now with this heavy debt facing him, both he and the supporters of that form of government would capitalize on the debt, and point this out as a weakness of the aldermanic system. I think we will do better to postpone for another year a change in government."

Although Alderman Packard introduced the resolution, he told the council he still questioned the wisdom of the special election in February. He admitted, however, that this was merely his personal opinion, and added that he believed

Make Final Revisions Of Young Plan At The Hague

SECOND MEET ON WAR DEBTS IS LAUNCHED

After Representatives of 13 Nations End Work Government Must Act

The Hague—(AP)—The second international Hague conference on reparations opened here late this afternoon with eulogies of the late Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, who attended the first Hague conference in August.

The principal delegates of the nations represented united in paying tribute to Stresemann before beginning of their work, which he had done so much to carry forward.

The Hague—(AP)—Final trimming, expansion and revision of the Young plan was the object today of representatives of 13 nations meeting here for the second conference on reparations.

When they have concluded their labors unless some unforeseen hitch develops—the Young plan will be referred back to the governments for ratification and its schedule of annuities over 58 years actually replace the present Dawes plan annuities scale.

A meeting of from ten days to two weeks was hoped for, but there were those who thought that the reparations matters could be disposed of in that time.

Albiste, French foreign minister, hopes to leave here in time for the meeting of the council of the league of nations Jan. 15 while several of the delegates here will attend the London naval conference opening Jan. 21.

The problem which possibly will bring most discussion and draw national lines clearest, it was expected here today, will be that represented by Germany's demand that the idea of sanctions be eliminated from the creditor nations' reparations policy.

Although parliamentary ratification has not been given, the German government has pledged its good faith in acceptance of the Young plan, and its intention to abide by its provisions. But in the event some circumstance should bring cessation of payment the Reich does not wish to have the Rhineland reoccupied, or other penalties imposed to exact further cash.

WANTS ARBITRATION BODY
The Reich hopes that some sort of arbitration board can be provided which will determine responsibility in the event of defaulted payments and then employ sanctions if they are found necessary. This idea, somewhat modified also, is held by M. Briand. Others in the French government are known to be less inclined to abandon what they consider guarantees that the German annuities will be made, and, ergo, that France meets its war debt and other obligations from the money thus obtained.

Broadly speaking, the tendency among the remaining creditor nations seems to favor this French position.

M. Tardieu, French premier, is expected today to see Philip Snowden, British chancellor of the exchequer, whose firm stand for return to Great Britain of certain former concessions on reparations greatly prolonged the first Hague conference. The concessions finally made to the British government affected France most and it was believed, since there was considerable French popular dissatisfaction with the arrangement, that there might be some further discussion of the matter.

Problems involved in the so-called "Oriental reparations" or those to be exacted from Hungary and Bulgaria, also faced the meeting as it convened. It was possible, these might be evaded for the time being and referred to some later conference. Phases of the scheme for the new bank of international settlements were certain to reach the conference.

The meeting is the fourth of the more recent reparations conferences, the first being that of the financial experts at Paris last year in which the German reparations debt was spread over 50 payments with a present value of about $10,000,000,000.

The second was the first Hague conference, called for certain revisions of the Young plan to meet political considerations.

Later at Baden-Baden, Germany financial experts of 15 interested countries met and arranged for founding of the new bank of international settlements, which was intended to handle the reparations payments.

KILLS HER CHILD TO SAVE IT FROM SIN; FACES SANITY TEST

Waukegan, Ill.—(AP)—Technically charged with murder as the result of drowning her 2-year-old daughter to "save her from sin," Mrs. Irene Nelson, 35, today was held in the Lake-co jail pending a sanity hearing Saturday.

Her husband, Franklin V. Nelson, manager of the Northwestern Country club at Foxfield, arrived home shortly after Martha was drowned yesterday and found Mrs. Nelson attempting to choke their other daughter, Harriet, 12. He said his wife had been mentally unbalanced for some time.

"I want my children to be safe from sin," Mrs. Nelson told Police Chief Edward Matoney. "I planned to put them out of the way Christmas, but decided to wait until New Year's. Then I slept through the night. This morning I decided not to put it off any longer."

MORGAN AND JOHNS QUIT PARTNERSHIP

Morgan Continues in Business; Johns Devotes Time to Private Affairs

The partnership of Morgan and Johns, local attorneys, has been dissolved, according to an announcement Friday morning from John Morgan, one of the partners. Mr. Morgan will continue in business at the offices in the First National bank and Mr. Johns expects to devote all his time to his private affairs. He will not continue in law but he will maintain his residence in Appleton. Mr. Johns has been elected president of the Plummer Woodwork company at Algoma. He was in that city taking over his new duties Friday.

The two attorneys formed their partnership Oct. 1, 1920, after L. H. Benton, who previously was associated with Mr. Morgan, withdrew from the firm. Mr. Morgan and Mr. Johns have been partners since.

Mr. Johns was secretary to Fred R. Zimmerman in 1923 when the latter was governor of the state.

not reach that position until late today.

The ship's steering gear was carried away yesterday by a terrific storm which tossed the north Pacific into mountainous waves. A makeshift rudder was installed in the midst of the storm, but Captain Gregor Johnson radioed that he feared even that would be torn away.

The ship left the Columbia river Dec. 30, bound for the Orient with a cargo of lumber, mail and manufactured goods. There were 45 men in her crew. Officials of the States Steamship company of Portland, owners of the vessel, said that early reports that the vessel was leaking were incorrect.

Problems involved in the so-called "Oriental reparations" or those to be exacted from Hungary and Bulgaria, also faced the meeting as it convened. It was possible, these might be evaded for the time being and referred to some later conference. Phases of the scheme for the new bank of international settlements were certain to reach the conference.

The meeting is the fourth of the more recent reparations conferences, the first being that of the financial experts at Paris last year in which the German reparations debt was spread over 50 payments with a present value of about $10,000,000,000.

The second was the first Hague conference, called for certain revisions of the Young plan to meet political considerations.

Later at Baden-Baden, Germany financial experts of 15 interested countries met and arranged for founding of the new bank of international settlements, which was intended to handle the reparations payments.

DISABLED FREIGHTER

Seattle—(AP)—With two coast guard cutters rushing through storm-lashed seas to her aid, the disabled freighter California today was reported steaming at low speed toward Cape Flattery, Wash. A radio message from the ship said she was in imminent danger of losing a temporary rubber.

A message from the ship, sent today, gave her position as 33° north, 124° west. The coast guard cutters, the Shenbrot and the Heceta, are en route.

Iron-Sided Hoosier In Chicago Asks For Guard

Chicago—(AP)—Lease is lease and vest is vest, but whether the twin shall meet depends upon G. L. Potter of Lafayette, Ind.

Potter, wrapped in a bullet-proof vest, was in town to transact a bit of business involving a lease. He acquired the lead-shedding waistcoat after the man with whom he was to deal began talking hostile.

The party of the second part is reported to have spoken to Potter in terms of mayhem, murder and massacre, when the Lafayette man first approached him. It was then Potter bought the armor.

Readers of the daily prints may recall the circumstances under which the vest purchase was made. Police learnings that a man was buying it to a bank. Potter's only purpose in going to the bank was to get money to pay for the vest. Police, though, thought he intended to rob the place. When he emerged and drove away, police pursued and finally cornered him. Potter thought it was Chicago's gangsters and threw out his vest. Eventually the matter was explained satisfactorily to everybody. That should have been an end to the matter, but it wasn't. Potter, in his iron shirt, called police again yesterday, demanding protection. He said that vest or no vest he was a virtual prisoner at 5036 Kenwood-ave because a mysterious voice had told him over the phone that he would be killed if he left the house. Potter, therefore, had become something of a lunatic.

Police assigned a guard. The gentleman from Indiana intimated that unless steps were taken to remedy the situation, he would return to Lafayette while the returning was good.

PROBE HELD ON SHIP AFTER 2 DIE IN WATER

Four Others Injured by Flames, Gig Burned in Gasoline Fire

San Pedro, Calif.—(AP)—A court of inquiry today will convene aboard the U. S. S. Saratoga, giant naval aircraft carrier, to fix responsibility for a gasoline fire which yesterday brought death to two men, burned four others, three of them seriously, destroyed a gig valued at $25,000 and caused damage as yet unestimated to the starboard side of the carrier.

Commander A. C. Reid, senior officer of the Saratoga, said the fire originated in a turpentine pot in a pump alongside the Saratoga, firing the surface of the water, which was covered with residue from a gasoline compressor pump being cleaned aboard the Saratoga. The cause of the turpentine pot fire had not been determined. The dead:

Matthew La Vielle, 22, seaman, second class, 517 Hamilton-st, Schenectady, N. Y., nearest relative, mother, Mrs. Clara La Vielle, Schenectady. Body not recovered.

Vincent Valentine Lalor, 29, engineer second class, 465 Pacific-ave, Brooklyn, N. Y., nearest relative, sister, Mrs. Muriel McCaffrey, 315 W. Ninety-fourth-st, New York City. Body not recovered.

The injured: George William Feby, 19, Annapolis, Md., seaman second class, nearest relative, father, H. W. Feby, Annapolis. Burned on face, expected to recover.

Henry Kenfield, 24, R. F. D. No. 2, Hampton, Conn., seaman first class. Nearest relative father, George Kenfield, Hampton. Seriously burned. Expected to recover.

Albert Lee Houston, 20, R. F. D. No. 1, Centralia, Wash., seaman second class. Nearest relative, George Albert Houston, Centralia. Seriously burned, recovery in doubt.

E. J. Morton, seaman, second class slightly burned.

GIG IS DESTROYED
The captain's gig, moored alongside the Saratoga was burned. The flames leaped 20 feet above the carrier's stacks and blackened about two-thirds of the starboard side, but failed to penetrate the interior of the ship.

The 1,500 members of the crew aboard were hurried to fight the fire and succeeded in keeping the flames from a large quantity of combustible material carried on the ship. Damage to the huge carrier had not been estimated, but Commander Reid said a preliminary examination indicated that repairs can be made without difficulty while the ship remains at anchorage.

The deaths of La Vielle and Lalor were not discovered until some time after the flames had been extinguished.

La Vielle, who was painting the hull of the gun, called to Feby when the turpentine pot blazed, and together they threw it overboard into the gasoline-covered water. The flames immediately spread, and all aboard the punt and the gig nearby jumped into the water. Lalor was one of the three men aboard the gig.

Authorities believe that LaVielle and Lalor, coming to the surface, inhaled flames and "ank."

Morton was burned when he leaped from the Saratoga to save Feby. He grasped him and, with Kenfield and Houston, they were picked up by Matthew Babrick, a water taxi operator, who took them to the port side of the Saratoga. They were taken aboard and placed in the ship's sick bay.

Imminent danger to the combustible materials within the Saratoga lasted only three minutes, as the flames rushed up its sides and flicked in its portholes.

BOARD OF HEALTH TO MEET NEXT THURSDAY

The board of health will meet at city hall next Thursday evening. Because the regular meeting time of the board conflicted with the postponed meeting of the common council last night, the health meeting was transferred to next week.

NEGRO HUNTED AS MARYLAND SLAYER

Woman Tells Police She Was Attacked and Companion
Shot to Death

Baltimore, Md.—(AP)—Reuben Heyman, 24, was shot to death last night on a lonely road outside the city and a patrolman found his companion, Mrs. Dorothy Burgess, 24, sitting on a curbstone in the city, early today sobbing that she had been attacked by a Negro who killed Heyman. The Negro had a cork foot.

First word of the shooting was a telephone call by Mrs. Burgess to Heyman's parents, saying he had been killed but she was so hysterical they could not understand her message and notified police. The young woman directed searchers to Heyman's body. His automobile was in a ditch about 100 feet away.

Mrs. Burgess told police she and Heyman were sitting in his parked automobile near Druid Hill reservoir when the Negro approached with a pistol and forced them to drive to the road where Heyman's body and automobile were found. Her assailant refused offers of money, she said, and when they tried to fight him off, Heyman was killed.

The girl walked for a while, then got a lift from motorists coming into the city but did not tell them of the attack, according to the police report of her story. Efforts to establish the time of the attack and question the young woman on other details were futile because of her hysterical condition, and she was allowed to rest before being questioned further.

One of the circumstances puzzling the police was discovery that Heyman had two bullet wounds in the breast, but only one hole showed through his overcoat and jacket.

Bankruptcy Ring Member Hangs Self To Evade Cops

New York—(AP)—Abraham Lauterstein, 44, a furniture dealer, escaped arrest by federal authorities as a member of a bankruptcy ring last night by hanging himself.

With nine others he was indicted by a federal grand jury for using the mails to defraud in connection with the $500,000 failure of the National Home Outfitting company of Pittsburgh and New York.

While United States marshals were seeking members of the ring to serve bench warrants, Lauterstein went into the basement of his Brooklyn store and hanged himself.

His body was found by his partner, Harry Schachter, who also is under indictment in the bankruptcy case. On Lauterstein's desk were found two signed checks with the amounts left blank and a note instructing his secretary to draw all of his money out of the bank and give it to his family.

The other eight under indictment are: Morris Sanford, Morris Maletsky and Michael Gellis, all of Waterbury, Conn.; Bertram Hene of Pittsburgh; Jack Lerner of Manhattan; Michael Kantor, Benjamin Elford and Morris Chauls, all of Brooklyn.

Agents of the National Association of Credit Men testified that the company which had its headquarters in Pittsburgh obtained a $200,000 credit rating from banks there on fraudulent representations made by Sanford.

Isadore Shapiro was appointed receiver for the company last August after credit association representatives charged that truckloads of merchandise had been removed from the New York branch of the company. The only assets discovered have been a truckload of china, seized in Jamaica, Long Island.

MORE ART TREASURES GOING UNDER HAMMER

Lansdowne Marbles Will Be Offered for Sale at Public Auction

BY JOSEPH GRIGG
London—(AP)—Fears of art lovers that 1930 would witness another great disgorging of privately owned art treasures appear only too well-founded, although the year is only two days old.

It was announced today that the Lansdowne Marbles, regarded as one of the most beautiful and valuable collections of antique statuary in England, will go under the hammer on March 5. Announcement of this sale followed quickly upon that of the Barnett Lewis collection of paintings and other works of art, which was accumulated during the last 20 years and contains notable canvases by Romney, Gainsborough, Reynolds, Thomas and Lawrence. Sales this season thus begin sensationally.

That Americans will make a determined bid for the Lansdowne Marbles is without doubt and it is also expected that they will seek outstanding works of art in the Lewis collection.

Only a short time ago Marquess Lansdowne sold Lansdowne House, one of the most imposing residences of Mayfair, which has a notable place in British political history since the 18th century. It is regarded as inevitable that the Lansdowne Marbles will also be sold. Although there is strong agitation here for an embargo on the export of masterpieces, the labor government has refused legislation with that end in view. The left wingers recently severely criticized the government for spending $300,000 to save several pictures.

DALE RESIDENTS START MOVE FOR NEW OSHKOSH-ROD

Claim Proposed New Route
Would Cut Off Many Miles for Motorists

Residents of Dale have launched a movement to secure a new gravel-surfaced road between that village and federal highway 19 near Winchester. The proposed new route would provide a short cut to Oshkosh and would eliminate several dangerous grade crossings now existing on the road to Oshkosh from Dale.

The move was launched when a group of Dale citizens and Frank Appleton, Outagamie county highway commissioner, met at Oshkosh this week with the Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce to discuss the project. Besides Mr. Appleton, the committee was composed of M. M. Dettre, former county supervisor and member of the Outagamie county highway committee, M. M. Kuehn and E. Kaufman, both of Dale.

Mr. Appleton told the Oshkosh chamber that Outagamie county would be willing to cooperate in building the road, two miles of which would be in Outagamie county and a mile and a half of which would be in Winnebago.

The new road, under the plan, would be an extension of Outagamie county highway T which runs north from Dale to meet state highway 26 a mile west of Hortonville. Although the new road will have to be built on the land that is marshy, it is estimated that the construction cost will not be large because a gravel base would be sufficient and gravel could easily be secured from pits in the immediate neighborhood. The suggested road would cut off about seven or eight miles of the distance between Dale and Oshkosh via automobile.

$13,645 MORE IN TAXES IS COLLECTED BY CITY

With the payment of $13,645.25 in taxes on Thursday, the city treasurer's office saw its most active day yesterday. The first two days of the tax-paying period brought $10,523.91 and $3,984.62, respectively. According to Fred Bachman, treasurer, the smaller taxes are being paid now, and the larger ones probably will not come in until the last few days of the extended period. Usually from $45,000 to $47,000 is collected on the last day of February.

CHAMBER GETS ANNUAL REQUESTS FOR DATA

General Weather
The high pressure which was centered over the Canadian Northwest yesterday morning has moved rapidly southward and now overrides the state of Oklahoma, bringing fair and much colder to the western plains states and the upper Mississippi Valley, with zero temperatures reported from Minnesota. Low pressure over the New England states has caused snow and rain in the lower lakes and the northeastern portion of the country. Another "low" over the Canadian Northwest is bringing unsettled and much warmer to the upper Missouri Valley. Fair and colder is expected in this section tonight, followed by cloudy, unsettled and warmer Saturday. The minimum tonight is expected to be between 5 and 10 degrees.

Here's How You Happened To Be Called For Jury Duty

Many Outagamie county residents have wondered who they have to blame when they receive a summons to jury duty.

Sydney M. Shannon, clerk of courts, under whose jurisdiction most jurors are chosen, this week explained the procedure followed when jurors are chosen to try cases in Outagamie county.

The jurors to serve in circuit court are chosen by three men who have been appointed as jury commissioners by the circuit judge, according to Mr. Shannon. These men meet as often as there is need for a new set of names for jury duty in circuit court. They usually use the poll lists and pick out about 600 persons residing in every town, city and village in the county. The commissioners then send jury questionnaires to each of these persons, who are asked to answer the questions and return the blanks.

Answers to the questions determine whether the persons are fitted for jury duty. Usually there are about 200 persons qualified for service. The names of each of these persons are placed on a small piece of cardboard. They are then placed in the jury box. Every six months, in March and in September, Mr. Shannon draws 25 slips from this box. These 25 names comprise a venire of jurymen who are called for duty during the ensuing six months. When the 200 names are exhausted the commissioners meet again and choose another set of names for service.

An entirely different procedure is followed in choosing the "good men and true" which serve in the justice and upper branches of municipal court. In this case the names of the persons who may be called for jury duty are suggested by the supervisors.

SUPERVISORS RECOMMEND
Each supervisor in Appleton is allowed to suggest from 25 to 30 names, and most of them turn in the full quota. In addition each town and village supervisor and each supervisor from wards in cities outside of Appleton, are permitted to turn in from four to six names.

Thus there would be 150 jurors from Appleton and about the same number from outside Appleton. These jurors serve one year, which starts each year on May 1. From the 150 Appleton jurors 50 names are drawn and placed in the county-at-large list, thus giving a full representation to every section of the county in this group.

As in the case of circuit court jurors the names are then written on small pasteboard slips and placed in a box that is locked and kept by the clerk of courts. When a jury is needed the city of Appleton box is always used except when the attorney asks for a county-at-large jury when six days notice must be given.

When a jury is to be drawn the municipal judge takes 25 slips from the box. The attorneys for each side are allowed to strike off nine names, thus leaving 16 jurors, who make up the venire. When the final selection of the jury is made on the day of trial each attorney is allowed to strike out two more jurors. The other two is allowed by law to make up for absentees or excused jurors.

In justice court cases, which also are tried before the municipal judge, only six jurors are needed. Fifteen names are originally drawn and each attorney is allowed to strike out six of these.

In case there are not enough jurors to complete a jury the judge is permitted to draw three times as many as are needed and the attorneys are then allowed to exempt one-third of these; the last third being used to make up the jury.

ARTERIAL LAW MUST BE OBSERVED, CHIEF WARNS

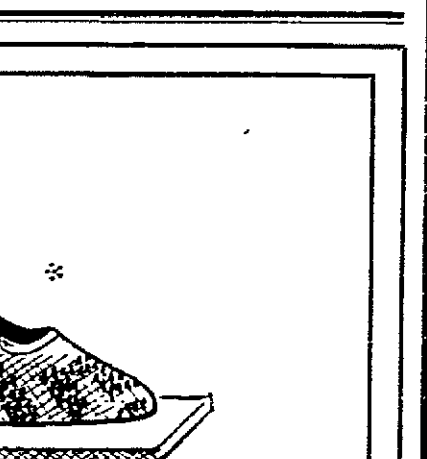

Police Chief George T. Pratt Friday issued a warning to motorists in which he pointed out that there must be a stricter servance of the arterial highway laws or wholesale arrests will be ordered.

The chief pointed out that the law requires motorists to come to a complete stop before advancing on to an arterial highway. He said the law is not observed when a driver merely slows down and shifts gears without coming to a complete stop. After a driver has made a full stop he gains the right of way over pedestrians and can then proceed onto the highway but the full stop must be made, the chief said. Many motorists are failing to observe the arterial law, the chief said, and the police officers are going to be instructed to watch for violators and bring them into court.

Ask For More Time To Consider School For Cripples

WANT TO TALK IT OVER WITH STATE BOARD

Van Nortwick Estate Asked to Extend Its Offer for 20 Days

With the time of acceptance of the offer of the Van Nortwick residence as a school for crippled children ending on Friday, the common council voted Thursday night to ask for an additional 20 days in which to consider the offer. Alderman C. D. Thompson, chairman of the finance committee, explained that the extension of time is necessary in order to permit an interview with an inspector from the industrial commission, who will be in Appleton within that period. Inasmuch as the reconstruction of the building into a home for crippled children comes under the jurisdiction of the commission, Mr. Thompson thought it advisable that the council defer action until the inspector had passed his opinion especially since the attitude of the state body in the matter is doubtful.

The amendment to the plumbing and sewer ordinance recommended by the street and bridge committee, prohibiting the deposit into sewers of any substance apt to cause an obstruction or explosion, was referred to the ordinance committee and ordered published. It was pointed out that the draining of garbage, grease and especially naptha gas into the sewers of the city is hazardous and should be prohibited by a city ordinance.

The route through Appleton of a new bus line, to operate between Fond du Lac to Green Bay, was approved. Upon the suggestion of Mayor A. C. Rule the bus will come into Appleton over Cherry-st, to College-ave, east on College-ave to Appleton-st, south on Appleton-st to Lawrence-st, east on Lawrence-st to Morrison-st, north on Morrison-st to College-ave, west on College-ave to Oneida-st, north on Oneida-st to Washington-st, east on Washington-st to Morrison-st, south on Morrison-st to College-ave, east on College-ave to Rankin-st, north on Rankin-st to Pacific-st, east on Pacific-st to Lemnawab-st, north on Lemnawab-st to Wisconsin-ave, and then on Kimberly.

An objection to the bus service being given to Appleton patrons, and a request that a committee of three be appointed by the mayor to control bus schedules was made by Alderman Mike Steinhauser. Alderman Thompson augmented this request with a suggestion that a committee be appointed to regulate all traffic problems, parking, traffic, bus schedules, and opening and use of streets—but no official action was taken by the council.

An ordinance making Mason-st an arterial and providing for stop signs at the corners of Morrison-st and Washington-st, Lawrence-st and Walnut-st and Lawe-st and Pacific-st was approved. The stop sign on Morrison-st and Washington-st will regulate northbound traffic, and the other two signs will hold up east and west traffic.

The purchase of a $12.00 sewer cleaning machine which will clean 25 catch basins daily was referred to the street and bridge committee.

A petition signed by 96 property owners on College-ave, requesting that the period of payment for the special assessment for ornamental lights be extended six months or a year was denied. The document pointed out that the additional tax caused a regular tax time hardship on the College-ave property owners, but the council felt that granting the permit would start a precedent in the matter of paying special assessments.

The Oldtimer Asks

The old spill way at the lower end of the Goat canal offered attractions to us when going in swimming. "Jim" Smith taught his nephews to swim by taking them out in a boat into deep water and throwing them over board with a rope tied under their arms.

A. L. Smith had an artesian well with a pool with trout in it at the Lawe-st bridge? The standard text for bacal-amreate sermons was "And the stone which the builders rejected has become the head of the Corner" and how appropriate it all seems, when we realize that "Lindy" was not the only one to surprise people in later life?

The old gas works was put in Appleton and how "swell" they used to be at times and how puffed up we were over street gas lights? The cities that had the "tower" system of arc electric street lighting felt very superior to their neighbor cities not progressive?

NAMES U. S. CREW IN BOAT SLAYINGS

Federal Attorney Gives Names to Rhode Island Attorney General

Providence, R. I.—(AP)—Attorney General Oscar L. Hietzen, in charge of the state's case in the investigation of the slaying of three run runners in Rhode Island waters last Sunday morning, today made public the names of the crew of Coast Guard Patrol Boat 290 from which the machine gun bullets which killed the smugglers were fired.

He received the names from United States Attorney Henry M. Boss, Jr., the government's representative in the proceedings. They follow: Oswald, Alexander C. Cornell, in charge of the 290; chief motor machinist's mate, Louis Johnson; boat swain's mate, first class, Riden T. Bennett, motor machinist's mate, second class, Andrew Rhude; seaman, first class, Lewis R. Pearson; ship's cook, second class, Arthur E. Dye; seaman, second class, Frank W. Jakubec.

The "Black Duck," the rum craft on which the three smugglers met, was captured, arrived this morning from New London. The boat had been ordered here yesterday by coast guard officials. It is believed to contain its liquor cargo, but some time after its arrival had not been inspected by the investigators.

Attorney General Hietzen announced that he had requested United States Attorney Boss to summon the crew of the 290 to this jurisdiction for the inquest which opened yesterday at Newport.

Mr. Hietzen said that if Mr. Boss thus saved the state the trouble and possible expense of issuing interstate summonses for the men he would throw open the inquest to the public and consequently to the representatives of the federal government who were barred yesterday.

Mr. Boss said he would make known his decision later.

SENATORS QUARREL, NAME IS WITHDRAWN

Washington—(AP)—President Hoover has decided to withdraw from senate consideration the nomination of Alf Otfield to be internal revenue collector at San Francisco.

Senate action on the nomination has been held up as a result of a controversy between Senators Shortridge and Johnson of California, both Republicans, with Shortridge favoring confirmation.

Senator Johnson has insisted that Otfield, who formerly was assistant prohibition commissioner, is not a resident of California and consequently should not be appointed to a federal office in that state. He also has complained that Otfield was the selection of the "Benjamin machine" in San Francisco.

COUNCIL SETS MANAGER VOTE FOR APRIL 1

Turns Down Plea for Special Election on February 11

than that of aldermen, I wish they would name it. RAPS COMMITTEE "I knew the city manager committee would construe the council's action as it has. Doesn't the committee realize, I wonder, that the council was merely following the recommendation of the city attorney? And I am sure that nobody will question the ability or integrity of the city attorney. I voted for the special election in April at our last meeting, and I will vote for the special election next month. Believe me, I have no fear of losing my job."

After the vote on the Packard resolution, Alderman Brautigan moved that the special election on the city manager plan be held the same day as the special election for governor, which was seconded by Alderman Packard, and was adopted unanimously.

Alderman Packard's resolution follows: Whereas, there has been filed with the city clerk of the city of Appleton, Wisconsin, a petition asking that a proposed charter ordinance annexed to said petition and attached hereto, either be adopted without alteration by the common council of said city, or be referred without alteration to a vote of the electors of the said city, for the reorganization of said city of Appleton, Wisconsin, under the revised statutes of Wisconsin of 1927, as amended, and especially under Chapter 64 thereof, providing for the city manager plan; with a council composed of seven members to be elected from the city at large for terms of two years each, said councilmen to serve without compensation, and

Resolved: That such question shall be submitted to a vote of the electors of said city at a special election to be held on the eleventh day of February, A. D., 1930.

Resolved further: That the question to be submitted to the electors of the said city, at such election, shall be as follows:

"Shall the city of Appleton, Wisconsin, be reorganized under Chapter 64 of the Wisconsin statutes providing for the city manager plan with a council composed of seven members to be elected from the city at large, and for the term of two years each, to serve without compensation."

Resolved further that notice of such election shall be given and that such election shall be conducted and the results thereof canvassed in the manner provided by law.

Here is the letter to the common council from the city manager government campaign:

To the Honorable Mayor, and Common Council, City of Appleton, Wisconsin, Gentlemen:

"On January 2, 1930, there was filed with your city clerk a petition requesting your honorable body to call a special election to vote on adopting the city manager form of government for Appleton. This petition now is before you for consideration."

"Supplementing this petition, the regularly constituted City Manager Campaign committee is asking your honorable body to set a date for this special election at such time that the city manager form of government might become operative in April, 1930, in the event it is adopted by the people."

"In making this request we are speaking for the 4,500 persons who signed this petition and the first two petitions which your city clerk refused to certify to the city. We do not believe to be sustained by the courts if submitted to them. We believe that this large number of signers, obtained in every ward in the city, is sufficient indication of the widespread demand for adoption of the city manager plan to cause a reasonable body to grant an opportunity to vote on this proposal at the earliest possible moment. We are convinced that the vast majority of these signers desire a special election at this time so that if the majority of the people approve of the city manager plan, it may then become effective in April, 1930, instead of being postponed for one year."

"No attempt was made to secure a large number of signers on the petition now before you. We believe that the two previous petitions were a sufficient expression of sentiment."

"We cannot place a great deal of weight on the excuse that unbeated polling places make an election in February inadvisable. We think that the difficulty of finding heated polling places has been greatly magnified. We know that in the past the council has found heated polling places in the spring or fall when weather conditions made it advisable to do so, and we believe this can be done again."

"Your resolution of December 23, specifically stated that the expense of a special election is justified if it results in an adequate expression from the people and this committee believes, for the reasons heretofore stated, that the vote on the second Tuesday in February will be an adequate expression and that therefore expense of such an election is justified."

"We stated in this letter that your resolution of December 23 unwisely and we think illegally, provided for a special election on the initiative of the council in April. We say unwisely because, as you know, such an election would be only a referendum to ascertain sentiment and as such would not be mandatory upon the

THIS BARBER SHOWS WORLD WHAT HAIRCUT SHOULD NOT BE LIKE

A victim of his own trade, August Plette, Kimberly barber, stands today with bowed head, a living example of what a haircut should not be.

With innocent purpose "blackies" went to his shop New Year's day to install an oil burner. Two New Year's revellers dropped in, and offered him $5 if he would let them experiment honorably on his head of heavy black hair. The barber, his trade pride getting the best of him, refused, and then the fun began. The two tonsorial-minded gents held him in his chair and applied the clippers, there and any where with no particular design or eye to beauty.

Thursday the Kimberly barber's head looked like a traffic map, and with his wife threatening to divorce him on the grounds of appearance, he hastened to Appleton to see what a local barber could do to remove the marks of a too-energetic and careless haircut.

by the people of Appleton and this petition now being considered was circulated with the view of obtaining only a sufficient number of signatures to comply with the legal requirements. Yet this petition was obtained in only four days by an organization composed entirely of volunteers working without hope or expectation of compensation of any kind.

"The law gives this council the authority to call a special election at any time it desires before next April, and we believe that if such election is called for the second Tuesday in February there will be ample time for discussion that will thoroughly inform the voters concerning the issue before them."

"The adoption of city manager government for Appleton has been publicly discussed since last October and we believe that ample opportunity in the past and in the month that still remains will be afforded for the people to become conversant with the city manager plan if an election is ordered on the second Tuesday in February."

"A resolution of December 23 unwisely, and we think illegally, calling a special election next April, cites various excuses for not ordering this election at an earlier date. This committee reads these excuses with considerable interest and could not escape the conclusion that they were formulated for the purpose of deferring as long as possible an expression from the people on adoption of the city manager plan."

"First of all we believe that the extremely large number of persons whose signatures appear on the petitions indicates so great an interest that an exceptionally large vote would be polled no matter when the election is held. It is true that at some special elections the vote was less than normal but those elections in Appleton's history were referendums to which little significance was attached, whereas the election we propose is of tremendous interest to every citizen of our city and the very important question involved together with the discussion and publicity which has attended the campaign is most certain to result in an unusually large representation of the voters."

"Your attention on previous occasions was called to the fact that in the two previous municipal elections only 5,800 votes were cast, which is a relatively small proportion of the voting strength of Appleton. Your council, however, accepts this vote as a fair expression of the people of Appleton. We believe that the large number of signers on the petitions, secured with a minimum of effort and in a very short time, indicates that at least as many persons will visit the polls at a special election as voted in the two previous elections, and if 5,800 votes is considered a fair representation of a considered election in which aldermen are chosen it should also be considered the same at an election for adoption of the city manager plan of government."

"We cannot subscribe to your argument that an election in February is likely to encounter bad weather and that such bad weather will seriously interfere with an adequate expression from the people."

"We do not believe that statistics can be produced to indicate difficult weather conditions at the time we have suggested as a date for a special election and we do believe, for the reasons stated in the preceding paragraph, that normal winter weather will keep voters away from the polls. We believe that the people of Appleton will be ready and willing to vote on the subject at that time and that the council by the principle of the election to which it subscribes, must be impelled to grant this request."

"We cannot place a great deal of weight on the excuse that unbeated polling places make an election in February inadvisable. We think that the difficulty of finding heated polling places has been greatly magnified. We know that in the past the council has found heated polling places in the spring or fall when weather conditions made it advisable to do so, and we believe this can be done again."

"Your resolution of December 23, specifically stated that the expense of a special election is justified if it results in an adequate expression from the people and this committee believes, for the reasons heretofore stated, that the vote on the second Tuesday in February will be an adequate expression and that therefore expense of such an election is justified."

"We stated in this letter that your resolution of December 23 unwisely and we think illegally, provided for a special election on the initiative of the council in April. We say unwisely because, as you know, such an election would be only a referendum to ascertain sentiment and as such would not be mandatory upon the flames and made the work of the firemen much harder. Heavy blankets of smoke poured from the building as the materials burned and spread over the whole city like a blanket of fog. The smoke attracted hundreds of spectators who watched the flames from nearby vantage points.

$30,000 FIRE THROWS 45 MEN OUT OF WORK

Finishing Department of Toy Company Suffers Heavy Loss

Two pumping machines were put into use two lines of hose extending from each, and two more lines of hose were laid from hydrants. One of the deluge sets, which plays a stream of water from two lines through one nozzle, was set up at the south side of the building where the fire was raging to keep the flames from spreading to the next building.

WAREHOUSE INTACT This building is used by Henry Long for a storage warehouse. Mr. Long said Friday morning that the building never was threatened at any time during the fire. He said that none of the goods stored in the building was damaged by smoke. An inspection Friday morning, Mr. Long said, found everything in perfect order.

The building in which the fire broke out is about 75 feet wide and 200 feet long and formerly was a part of a brewery. It is of stone construction.

The first floor of the building contained finishing machinery, compressed air, and paint spraying machines used to put the paint manufactured by the company on toys.

Mr. Wright said Friday that the machinery on the first floor was completely wrecked. The second and third floors were used for storing stock before shipment and between five and six carloads of toys were destroyed.

Several carloads of toys were ready for shipment within the next few weeks to New York firms, Mr. Wright said. Included in the goods that was destroyed was the entire stock of models to be shown in February by the company at the National Toy show in New York.

While only about 15 men were employed in the plant which burned, Mr. Wright said, the entire working force of the company would be thrown out of work because no stock could be made up in advance as the company has no available storage space.

The firemen battled the blaze until about 11 o'clock when it was finally put out. They remained for an hour longer, however, carefully examining the building for signs of further fire. The last equipment returned to the barns shortly before midnight.

MINNESOTA GROUP IS AGAINST RAIL MERGER

St. Paul—(AP)—O. P. B. Jacobson, chairman of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission, announced today that the commission would oppose consolidation of the northwest railways as proposed in the recent tentative plan advanced by the Interstate Commerce commission.

Declaring that a number of features of the proposed consolidation appear "ridiculous," he said that under the plan active competition would be largely eliminated and "there would be no incentive whatever either to maintain the present high grade of service or to attempt to improve it."

BOARD'S DECISION ENDS "RED" DISPUTE

Milwaukee—(AP)—The case of Joel Schneider, 13-year-old Communist, who was ousted from one school and reinstated in another for his alleged activities in organizing "red" clubs among his schoolmates, was ended today. A resolution approving the superintendent's action in transferring the lad from one school to another was approved last night by the school board instructed committee.

Neither Joel nor his parents were present when the committee acted although formerly they indicated they would oppose the transfer and ask reinstatement in his original school.

council to adopt any form of manager government. We think this action was unwise because its purpose, it appears to us, was to confuse the public mind and to embarrass the city manager movement.

"We think the action was illegal because the call for the special meeting of the common council at which this action was taken stated specifically that the meeting was for the purpose of acting on city manager petitions and inasmuch as these petitions were not before you, they could not be considered. There was no reference to a special election in your call for the meeting and for that reason we do not believe that this council had a legal right to order the election."

"We believe that the views we have expressed in this letter are endorsed by a vast majority of the persons whose names appear on the petitions circulated by the city manager campaign committee. These people are asking for an election which will compel obedience to the sentiment expressed in this election and we believe this election should be held at a time that will permit the city manager plan to become operative in April, 1930."

SCOUTS SELL PAPER TO BUY NEW DRUMS

Members of the valley council boy scout drum and bugle corps have started a "paper selling" campaign in an effort to earn enough money to purchase six new snare drums, one bass drum and six sets of cymbals.

Scouts are seeking the cooperation of the various business establishments in the city, where large amounts of waste paper accumulates during the week. Thus far they have collected two loads of paper.

4-H CLUB PROJECTS MAY BE SPONSORED BY COUNTY BANKERS

Plans for taking an active interest in county 4-H club work were discussed at a meeting of the agricultural committee of the Outagamie County Bankers association with Gus Sell, county agent, at Seymour Thursday night. Members of the banker's committee are: Charles Frossen, Seymour, chairman; George Peterson, Brookfield; E. Behling and E. J. Murphy, Freedom.

The committee decided to recommend at the next meeting of the county association that each of the bankers take an individual interest in the county club program and also that the association as a whole sponsor several major projects such as awarding of achievement pins, prizes for members doing especially good work, etc.

An attempt to take a more active interest in the boys and girls of the county through the rural schools and the rural 4-H club program is to be one of the aims of the agricultural committee and the banker's association as a whole, the committee decided Thursday night.

Mr. Sell explained the purpose of the club program and how it was working out in Outagamie county. The interest of the agricultural committee of the bankers association in the 4-H club program is the direct result of an experiment tried last summer and fall by the Bank of Kaukauna. C. D. Towles, a cashier of the bank, and Mr. Sell, arranged to organize a 4-H club which was sponsored by the bank. Mr. Towles acted as leader of the group and the rooms at the bank were used for meetings.

The bank financed members of the club in purchase of a calf and the members repaid the loans at the end of the season.

In addition the bank held a calf show for members of the club last fall and cash prizes were awarded to the members exhibiting the finest animals. The club was one of the largest and most successful in the county, according to Mr. Sell, and its success has prompted other bankers of the county to take an interest in the work with a view of sponsoring more of the 4-H club work in the next year.

SAY MANY BADGERS ARE UNEMPLOYED

Labor Officer Urges Need for Accurate Statistics in State

Milwaukee—(AP)—With prosperity and better business forecasts for 1930 still ringing in their ears, the executive board of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor today was informed that "tens of thousands of families in Wisconsin are in want because the providers for the household are denied the opportunity to make a living."

Secretary-Treasurer J. J. Handley, in a report to the annual meeting of the board, said that accurate statistics relative to unemployment were paramount to the solution of "enforced idleness" in the state.

"We are still without adequate government machinery to provide anywhere near an accurate report on the number of people unemployed in this state or nation, although provision has been made to gather such statistics when the census is taken. These figures," Handley said, "will not be available for several years."

Handley said that unemployment had reached excessive bounds in the state. "Reports of the United States Bureau of Labor show that in many industries in Wisconsin the hours of labor are longer and the wages less than in other states."

Members of the board, in addition to Handley and President Henry Ohl, are: Eugene H. Kaillian, Watertown; H. C. Croft, St. Madison; William V. Sommers, Racine; Frank J. Janda, Oshkosh; George J. Schneider, Appleton; William E. Brown, James P. Sheehan, Otto Mesenbrink and Marshall Whaling, Milwaukee.

CLEAR SKIES, COLDER WEATHER TO PREVAIL

Skies will be clear and a moderate cold wave will prevail in this vicinity Friday night and Saturday, according to the weatherman. Unsettled weather will prevail by Saturday night, however.

Winds are shifting in the northwest, which is a good indication that colder weather is on its way. At 6 o'clock Friday morning the mercury registered 20 degrees above zero, while at noon it registered 25 degrees.

one day, obtained permission to convey young Marie Jose and Miss Hammarley to Venice. The charm of Venice reacted upon the royal children just as it does on more prosaic visitors, and when they had to separate a couple of days later, young Marie Jose first shed a lover's tear.

For six years she was unable to meet Humbert again. Their ways had separated but their hearts were still filled with each other. When they next met, Marie Jose was a sweet young girl of 17, and Humbert the dark-eyed prince had come a tall slender officer in his father's army.

The happy days of Padua and Venice had left a deep, genuine feeling in both hearts and, with the consent of their parents they became engaged. An Italian paper published the news of the betrothal which, despite its truth, was officially denied. Events at the time were not ripe for the news being announced officially. The prince was sent on mission to the Near East and subsequently to far off south America.

Many political difficulties were in the way of the royal lovers' romance but Princess Marie Jose said: "I'll marry my Italian prince or enter a convent."

She never wavered, so in August, 1923, both royal families agreed to an official announcement of an engagement existed. And now they will be married.

It will be a happy New Year for the commissioner if congress during the coming 12 months makes this system the foundation of the country's immigration policy and in his sponsorship of it he will have the support of the American Federation of Labor.

Assuring that in contrast to the present system under which thousands of unneeded alien laborers are admitted annually, selective immigration would permit accepting only those who would aid industry, Mr. Hull said today it would be based upon one simple formula.

"We would find out where a man is going," he said, "what he is going to do there and whether there is room for him under economic needs before admitting him. If he intended engaging in some occupation in which there is already a surplus, he would not be permitted to come."

Special bills already are pending in congress to allow selective immigration to a limited extent, but none goes as far as the commissioner desires. Under his plan certain standards based upon the actual economic needs of the country as determined by the secretaries of state, commerce, agriculture and labor would be set up and aliens who failed to meet those qualifications would be barred.

Mr. Hull believes many countries quotas under that system and that immigration probably would be reduced from 50,000 to 150,000 annually as a result.

ITALY'S KING FREES 6,000 FROM PRISONS

Rome—(AP)—Six thousand Italian prisoners will be released from confinement and have their sentences terminated when Princess Marie Jose of Belgium marries Humbert, prince of Piedmont, here Jan. 8.

An official proclamation made by King Victor Emanuel in connection with the wedding provides liberation for prisoners serving sentences of a year or less for civil and military offenses and for failure to pay fines.

In cases of sentences of more than a year, one year is remitted for civilians and two years for soldiers. Punishments inflicted on soldiers for violation of discipline are also lifted, except in cases of unworthy element.

In all, including remission of fines, it was expected as many as 40,000 persons will benefit. Criminals with bad records and criminals excluded from the benefits of the amnesty.

24 WOMEN ATTEND HOME ECONOMICS MEETING

Twenty-four women attended the home economics meeting at the home of Mrs. George Schaefer, town of Grand Chute, Thursday afternoon, according to Miss Harriet Thompson, county club leader, who attended the gathering. ASSAULT CHARGE IN WAKE OF CELEBRATION

Watertown—(AP)—J. Pipes today was under bond of $500, to hang over from a New Year party. According to M. C. Benninger, a University of Wisconsin student from Watertown, the two went to a Watertown clubhouse to see the New Year dawn. The New Year dawned, and along with it, the student said, Pipes celebrated. Pipes was both loud and rough in his celebration, Benninger said, and Pipes hit him over the head with a bottle. Benninger swore out a warrant charging assault with intent to do great bodily harm. Pipes said the assault was made after the student called him names. The case will be heard Jan. 10.

DAUDET RETURNS TO PARIS AFTER EXILE

Father of Murdered Boy Writes Final Chapter in Long Story

Paris (CPA)—Welcomed by a dense throng of Royalist sympathizers, Leon Daudet returned to Paris today from his two and a half years' exile in Belgium. He arrived at North station just two hours after Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Briand left by the same rail line for the Hague to attend the second reparations conference.

Daudet's exile from France was the culmination of a long series of sensational incidents which began with the death of his 14-year-old son, Philippe, in 1925. Philippe was found shot in a taxi cab under circumstances that pointed to suicide; but when it was revealed a few days later that he had been intimate with leading Paris anarchists, the father began a violent campaign in the Royalist newspaper, "L'Action Francaise," accusing the police of having murdered the boy for purposes of political revenge.

These accusations named the taxi driver, Bajot, as an accomplice, the chauffeur brought suit for libel and Daudet was sentenced to a prison term. He barricaded himself in the building of "L'Action Francaise" in the very heart of Paris and announced that with several hundred armed supporters he would resist arrest. The police and fire departments laid siege to the building and for 24 hours Paris expected that a pitched battle would ensue, but Prefect of Police Chaipe called Daudet out on a balcony and harangued him from the street, begging him to surrender and avoid useless bloodshed. Daudet yielded and was taken to the Santé prison. He had served only a few weeks of his sentence when he escaped with the aid of a group of young Royalists, who worked a hoax on the warden by telling him Daudet had been pardoned by the cabinet.

Daudet led the police a chase all over France, continuing to write his daily articles for "L'Action Francaise," until eventually he escaped over the Belgian frontier to Brussels.

Daudet's father was Alphonse Daudet, the novelist.

Over-Mantel Now A Barometer Of Taste

By MARGERY TAYLOR
Interior Decoration Editor, McCall's Magazine, Written For the Post-Crescent

The over-mantel is no longer a depot for "junk" like the attic. In the new decoration it worthily lives up to its position as center of interest in the room.

Erica-brac and that "artistic" colored photograph somehow do not seem to fit into the modern scheme. Even the popular picture flanked by two candlesticks tends to become a bore.

Because the visiting eye just naturally turns to it, isn't the over-mantel the logical place for the family to tell about itself?

Have you discovered the beauty of old English or Colonial?

Then the over-mantel is the perfect show window for pewter pieces you prize. Or, if china is your hobby, why not display above the hearth that odd Italian jug or that Spanish tile?

Of course, if your fireplace is the heavy cobblesone type, it is different. Then you had better forget the delicate china and decorate the mantel with the appropriate rustic peasant pottery, wrought iron candlesticks or brassware.

If you prefer the beauty of the larger surfaces of fabrics, above the fireplace is a fine setting for an old damask piece, some Japanese embroidery or one of the soft toned modern textiles.

With these should go some appropriate grouping—but it must be right, and the whole arrangement simple and not cluttery.

Are the lines of the fireplace high or low?

That's important, because you can make a low one seem higher with a grouping of a banjo clock flanked by pewter wall sconces. On a high mantel, a single picture looks uncomfortable, but two small, similar ones are just the thing—and instead of the customary candlesticks, the picture is completed with colorful Chinese pot-pourri jars.

DANES LOSE FOOD TAX BUT FACE DRINK LEVY

Copenhagen (CP)—Danish taxpayers fear that the lifting of the restaurant tax, against which they have long complained, is going to be another case of jumping from the frying pan into the fire.

For among the suggestions that are advanced for a substitute source of revenue is a large tax on spirits, both domestic and foreign.

The ten per cent tax which every diner-out has to pay in addition to his food bill in a restaurant has represented a substantial fund in the national coffers.

Talks To Parents

CHRISTMAS PACKAGES

BY ALICE JUDSON PEARCE

Joe did his own Christmas shopping.

He took the 57 cents out of his bank and went to the 10-cent store. He came back loaded with parcels and paper bags. Up in his own room he closed the door.

Only I, as a privileged character, was allowed to see what he had bought and to help in the wrapping. There was a doll for his cousin, a pencil with a ruby on the end for his friend, Jed, a mouse puzzle for his nurse, a note book to help his father remember things and a pair of engaging purple and yellow garters for his mother. My own present I was not allowed to see.

Together we wrapped and tied ribbons, and Joe applied liberally all the bright stickers he had bought to make his gifts look quite as handsome as they should.

When they were all done we lined them up on the mantel in his room and agreed that they were a fine sight.

For the whole week before Christmas Joe enjoyed those little mysterious packages. He rearranged them half a dozen times, now putting them in the closet for safe keeping, now lining them all up on the mantel again.

It is doubtful whether anything that Joe received gave him more pleasure than the presents he gave. Grownsaps often forget this part of the child's Christmas. In their eagerness to give their children everything they wish for they lose sight of the fact that for children as well as for themselves at least half the joy of Christmas lies in making others happy.

ITALY READY TO GREET PRINCESS

Royalty to Be Among Party Welcoming Marie Jose to Rome

Rome (CP)—An imposing cortege awaits Princess Marie Jose, daughter of the Italian King, when she arrives in Rome today to wed Prince Humbert of Savoy.

The royal reception room at the central station has been decorated for the occasion.

Her father, King Victor Emmanuel, and his wife, Queen Elena, will be among the party to greet her.

The princess will be accompanied by her mother, the Duchess of Orleans, and her sister, the Princess of Monaco.

SEES TWO WOLVES AT HIS DOOR SO HE CALLS POLICE

Racine (CP)—When you meet a wolf at the door, be nonchalant. When you meet two—call the police. Jacob Maier did Thursday.

He heard a scratching at the door, he told police. Flinging it wide, he looked squarely at not one but two wolves.

Not bothering about formal introductions, Jacob slammed the door and then called for a squad of husky patrolmen. They arrived after the wolves had departed.

PRINCE EXPECTS TO FLY PART WAY TO AFRICA

London (CP)—The prince of Wales probably will use an airplane to cover at least part of the territory on his African hunting trip, starting today. He expects to cover 10,000 miles of central African territory, including considerable jungle country.

A half dozen automobiles will be provided for the prince's use while in Africa but it is feared that the prince will have much to do with the animals.

The prince is expected to leave London on Monday and to arrive in Africa on Tuesday.

He is expected to spend some time in the Sudan and to return to England during the late spring.

Meanwhile an experienced big game hunter, Captain Finch-Hatton, brother of the earl of Winchelsea, is arranging a program at Dodoma where he will meet the prince and act as conductor for the trip.

WHO'S WHO IN NEWS
Newspaper readers are probably interested in checking up, by their own judgment, the verdict of the head of one of the big news agencies on the "ten greatest news figures in the world." He gives them, in what he considers their order of importance, as follows: President Hoover first, King George and the Prince of Wales second, Lindbergh third, Mussolini fourth, Premier MacDonald fifth, Lloyd George sixth, Henry Ford seventh, Thomas A. Edison eighth, George Bernard Shaw ninth and Owen D. Young tenth.

Such a line-up is useful to practical newspaper men. It will be questioned, of course. Anyone might make a different list. But it does suggest what people today, in this country, seem to prefer reading about. What Americans may prefer reading about next year or the year after is another story. Likewise what other nationalities may prefer reading about now. Europeans would not admit so many American names. Asiatics, who vastly outnumber Europeans and Americans combined, might submit a surprisingly different list, with names that most of us have never heard of.

Historical importance is another matter. Only the perspective of the distant future can appraise that. Newspapers, chronicling today and seldom trying to guess beyond next week, have to content themselves mostly with public taste as they see it. For news purposes, men and women that people obviously like to read about are "important." Any paper that tries to substitute its own arbitrary judgment for public taste will not be read. And being read is the life of a newspaper.

POPULAR BROADCASTING
A new radio questionnaire, conducted from a single city, but covering a large area, brings these conclusions: "Mixed programs" are the most popular. Semi-classical music comes second, straight classical music third. Jazz and dramatics are tied for fourth place. Broadcast talks come fifth, and sports sixth.
This result will surprise many people. It is not so remarkable that jazz music should sink so low as it apparently does in public estimation—there have been many hints before that jazz was losing its appeal. But why should sports come last? Is there less interest in sports than the newspapers, for instance, take for granted? Or are the broadcasting stations not presenting the sport news well?

Another thing—two thirds of the voters in this questionnaire say "there is too much commercial broadcasting." Evidently the sponsors of radio programs are making their business appeals too obvious.
Here is a field where modesty and artistry are important. Radio advertising has to be done subtly, delicately, by suggestion or intimation rather than outright flaunting of trade names and commodity merits. The advertiser who tries to grab the other gets left. People tune out, and remember unpleasantly what was meant to be a pleasant memory.

CHANGING CITY NAMES
The Turkish government, like the Russian, is "changing everything." The dictator at Moscow changed St. Petersburg to Petrograd and then Leningrad, and the rider at Angora changes Constantinople to Istamboul. The latter name, however, is no novelty to the Turks. "Istamboul" or "Stamboul" has long been the Turkish name for the old city, and has been used as such by Europeans, while the historic name "Constantinople" was used for the modern city inhabited mainly by Europeans.
The word is a curious example, too, of linguistic change. "Stamboul" is said to be simply the result of the effort of the Turkish conquerors, centuries ago, to pronounce the Greek name "Constantinople," or "City of Constantine." It is reminiscent of another peculiar change which turned the name of the great Alexander to "Iskander" and similar variations, appearing in the name of the famous Albanian hero, Scander Beg.

THE CITY OF THE FUTURE

James J. Davis, secretary of labor, is very cheerful about the future of American cities. Not that he likes city life. He finds in it many evils. "Our great cities breed ill health. They create centers of discontent. They rob life of many things we were meant to enjoy." But he foresees an end to these evils, because city life and rural life are destined, he thinks, to become the same thing. The cities will grow right out into the country, keeping their own special benefits and annexing the benefits of rural life.

Congested cities will then be unknown, he believes. The man who works in the city will have a home in the country, perhaps 50 or 100 miles away, and will come to his day's work over superhighways on which he can travel comfortably 100 miles an hour. There will be a system of wide, elevated roads shooting from metropolitan business sections in all directions. Factory and office workers alike will flash into town in the morning, park their cars on top of the buildings where they work, and flash back home in the evening. The roads will be brightly lighted at night and beautified with trees and shrubs. Every road will be like a city street, but every home it passes will have fresh air, garden space, flowers, play and recreation of many kinds, and life will be more free, comfortable and happy than ever before.

It is a fine dream, at least. And we seem to be making progress toward it.

PHILIPPINE COMPETITION

The question of Philippine independence comes up again, in peculiar circumstances. A Washington observer says the islands "suddenly find themselves closer to independence than at any time in their history."

This situation grows out of the tariff fight. Senators and representatives from agricultural states specializing in beet sugar and dairy products find competition in cheap Philippine cane sugar and in coconut oil, used as a base for butter substitutes. These products now come in free. If the Philippines themselves were free, this country could keep them out with a protective tariff. So there is the prospect of an alliance between the lawmaking group referred to and the larger group which is always in favor of Philippine independence. Combined, they might make a majority and accomplish this coup.

The Filipinos have been promised their freedom repeatedly by presidents, congresses and party platforms. Fulfillment of the pledge has usually been conditioned on the political development of the natives, but in reality the reasons probably are strategic and commercial. Up to this time, it has never occurred to anybody that they would be ready for self-government whenever they were able to compete seriously with American products. They will now compete harder than ever.

CANADIAN AMERICANISM

Ten years ago the Canadian parliament abolished titles of nobility. It permitted those already titled to retain their titles, but forbade the acceptance of titles thereafter. There has been opposition to the law. The matter came up again in the last session of parliament, and was decided again in the same way. That probably settles the question for good. When the 75 titles now held by Canadians lapse, there will be no more.

Canadians honor British titles in Britons, but want none for themselves. Here is another evidence that our Canadian neighbors are surprisingly like ourselves. To our people, because of the superficial differences we easily recognize, they seem more British. To the native Britons, they seem more "American." The British are probably right about it, no matter what the Canadians themselves say.

The most primitive method of recording the hours was by means of a sundial. After this came the hour-glass, the clepsydra, or water clock, the burning of candles, and the clock.

A villain was at first a farm laborer, a quiet, inoffensive individual; but in the course of time the name has come to mean something entirely different.

A bigot was originally a Spaniard who wore a beard, as distinguished from one whose face was clean shaven.

An airplane recently flew from Cleveland to Chicago in 97 minutes. Light travels 186,000 miles per second or something like that. Still, we think the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals should be called into the huddle. IODOPHOBIA AND THE GOITER SITUATION
Thanks to the ardent medical writers and lecturers for the lay public, and to the overzealous public health workers and life extension bulletins, practically every woman with a goiter has with it an anxiety neurosis, declare Drs. Harold T. Hyman and Leo Kessel, who have made a thorough study of goiter at Mt. Sinai hospital, New York. Then these authorities add a striking remark:
"Almost all of our patients came to us with symptoms directly referable to this 'goiterphobia.'"
In the report of their studies published 2-3 years ago Drs. Hyman and Kessel said there had been a great furor over the dangers of a diet administration to individuals with adenomatous glands (adenomatous means lump or nodular enlargements). They regarded that danger as tremendously exaggerated and thought it should not deter the physician from the routine administration of an iodine in the general run of simple goiters that occur in girls and young women, less commonly in boys and young men.

The extravagances of the surgeons declared Drs. Hyman and Kessel, have also helped in no small way to further this anxiety state, one of the most zealous claiming that in his state more than three-fourths of the young women have a goiter, and of these, one-half have "toxic" symptoms. That eager surgeon would have us believe, then, that more than a third of all the young women in his state should undergo goiter operations.

Now I am expressing my own convictions and not merely reporting what Dr. Hyman and Dr. Kessel say. Here in November, 1929, an ambitious young surgeon, trailing the mystic symbols F. A. C. S., after his name and halting, he tells the medical world, from a private "clinic"—one of those huddles into which certain doctors go when they wish to advertise without losing caste in the profession—publishes in one of the leading medical journals his recommendation that the presence of thyroid adenoma, lumpy, or nodular goiter is sufficient evidence to call for removal, and bases this belief and practice on the fact that more than one-fourth of all such patients eventually develop "toxic" symptoms, that is, symptoms of hyperthyroidism or over-secretion of the thyroid gland; and a smaller proportion have trouble in breathing, swallowing or speaking; while now and then one ultimately develops malignancy (cancer).

But this drummer for the "clinic" mentions an interesting observation made by the outfit he works for. For some years, he says, "we" were inclined to believe that the hyperthyroidism of exophthalmic goiter differed in some way from that occurring in some cases of thyroid adenoma. Now that notion is no longer entertained. The "toxic" bugaboo is just a half baked surgeon's fancy. It is all plain hyperthyroidism. And in getting patients with hyperthyroidism ready for operation the surgeons have discovered that it is well to administer iodine in some form. This "clinic" scout says that today iodine medication, rest in bed and carefully graded surgery have united to lower the mortality of goiter operations very materially.

Acknowledging that surgery is the best treatment and the imperative treatment in some cases of goiter, I maintain that far too many patients with goiter are subjected to operation when proper medical treatment would be adequate.
I warn young women who have goiter, against the scare some ever ready operators seek to maintain about the administration of iodides by physicians.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
THE PUREST MILK
What is the difference between Jersey milk and certified milk? (Mrs. J. A.)
Answer—Jersey cows give all kinds of milk. Certified milk is the purest and naturally the most expensive. It is milked by hand. It is produced, handled and delivered to consumers under the supervision of a commission of local health authorities, physicians, bacteriologists, etc., who are responsible for the purity of the milk and who certify its purity, from regular examinations, inspections and tests. Any one who can afford it is fortunate indeed to have certified milk, particularly for children.

Another Near Marriage
I have been married nearly two years, yet I believe I can make good use of a little sound advice...troubled with what one doctor called chronic appendix...been told it would be better not to have any children until after the operation.... (A. W.)
Answer—Yes, I've heard some such yarn many times, but I never take it seriously. People who can't have children "just yet" have no business marrying. That sort of thing is the curse of the country.

The Silent Traffic Cop
Lamp this item, and then tell us whether the cop is well enough to keep on his post. (T. P.)
Answer—The clipping tells how a Houston traffic cop controlled traffic while the traffic light was out of order. He found he could hold his breath comfortably for 30 seconds, and so he gauged the stop and go. What joy to drive up and down past that cop—he couldn't very well bawl you out without messing traffic all up. But I imagine he must be pretty well; a healthy man can hold his breath 40 to 45 seconds. I don't believe, however, that any man could hold his breath every alternate 30 seconds, even in Houston. If a cop were to try that stunt they would have to cut him off in the "black Maria" after five minutes.

Prevention Is Nearly As Good as Killing
Is there anything to kill dandruff? (M. S.)
Answer—Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions for care of the hair and prevention or relief of dandruff. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD
BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—Talking pictures, with their irresistible lure to stage actors, have given the movies the "new blood" which many critics long held to be their greatest need.
And strangely, part of that "new blood," as represented in a group of nine stage veterans now playing in a screen revue, is very old. It has, in fact, a total combined age of some 370 years.

Here again are gathered together, for the first time in years, these old troupers—who, like their younger brethren of the footlights, have headed the talkie call.
HE'S 80, BUT ERECT
There stands Barney Fagan, nearly 80, erect, clean-cut, genial, despite his years. He became famous as a dancing comedian, and even today he is a nifty stepper.
Over here is Josephine Sabel, the "original coon-shouter," who made famous "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" in the war of '28. She's 64.
She chats with Fay Templeton, who at 63 left retirement for Hollywood.

WEBER AND FIELDS
And Joe Weber and Lew Fields are there, renowned inseparables from boyhood until their memorable break early in the century. Long since reunited, both are snowy-haired now.
And Louis Mann, barely 50, dialect-master, comic and student; De Wolf Hopper, tall, distinguished, patrician.
William Collier, sr., already a talkie convert, rounds out the group with Marie Dressler—Marie who already has scored in talkies, who entered films after long glory on the stage, in the famous "Tillie's Punctured Romance" of 1914.
Old-timers all, but what old-timers!

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—The senator from Idaho, Mr. Borah, always has taken it for granted that his ancestors were Irish. And while he has never gone out of his way to trace his genealogy, he gets a quick satisfaction out of the fact.
Now he has just discovered something new and interesting about his ancestry. He can claim a former king of Bohemia as one of his forebears.

It is all news to Borah. The discovery was not the result of his efforts or of any one in his family. The editor of a small paper has the honor.

H. E. Foethe of the Fennimore, Wis., Times, sent the Idaho senator a genealogical report showing that one of his ancestors was a Bohemian king.

It seems that the Boarhs were formerly Bohemians. The kingly ancestor was dethroned in a revolution in his country, fled to Germany, and then went to France. There one of his daughters married a prince of France.

IT ADVISES HIM
The dethroned king finally went back to Germany with his family. The other members of the Borah clan married and settled there. This was the foundation of the commoner Borahs.

The senator was highly amused at the report. After reading it, he immediately called in one of his stenographers and dictated the following reply to Roethe:
"Perhaps if this can be substantiated it may enable me to escape the charge of being a communist, a socialist, just now being laid upon me."

"I must lose no time into looking into that matter of royal blood." Many and varied are the symbols one finds scattered around the different branches of government in Washington, each typifying the authority of that particular department of state. One of the most unusual is the one to be seen in the house of representatives when that body is in session.

When congress convened for its regular sitting of the seventy-first session, a silver and ebony mace was placed near the speaker. There it will remain—symbolic of the legislative authority of the house—until the session is closed sometime next summer.

USED SINCE 1841
The mace, four feet long and worn smooth from use since its manufacture in 1841, signifies that a regular session is in attendance, and typifies the authority of the sergeant-at-arms.

It is fashioned after the Italian fasces, and consists of a bundle of rods of ebony, bound together by transverse ribbons of silver. A silver rod through the center holds the head, a large circular globe, etched to represent the earth.

THE POLITICS OF THE KING JAMES VERSION

Did you ever read the dedication of the King James Version of the Bible? It may be found in the front of most of the copies of that version of the scripture and it makes interesting reading.

Interesting because of its contrast in style and spirit to what follows in the work itself. The English of the King James version has been the glory of English literature for three centuries. It has influenced the style of many of the greatest writers England has produced. It is the English of Shakespeare—a robust, vivid, fresh English that was a ready, living tool for the greatest dramatist the world has seen. It called a spade but not in a truculent tone of bravado; there is nothing of the spirit of "I'll make you swallow plain words, you overpolite sissies" that is often present in this business of calling a spade a spade. The King James translators of the Bible just naturally said "fess" when they meant leg, without thinking about it. The same with many other words and phrases that a less robust generation blushed for.

Given scholarship and fidelity to the original, the King James version of the Bible could hardly have raised being great. Its substance was great to begin with—at least much of it. No translator could very well make a poor poem of the Book of Job or an indifferent narrative of the Gospels.

But the simplicity and robust beauty of much of the original of the Hebrew literature known as the Bible found its perfect dress in the robustness and beauty of Elizabethan English, for although the translation bears the name of James it legitimately belongs to the age of the period to which Elizabeth gave her name; the Elizabethan age did not end with the death of Elizabeth. The Bible and Elizabethan English were a perfect pair. Fifty years later the marriage of these two would have been far less happy.

But note the contrast between even Elizabethan English when men speak officially and when they speak as artists and lovers of truth. The dedication to King James is one of the most monstrous examples of affectation and sycophancy that you can come across in a week's reading. Gone is the simple directness of the translation itself, gone the beauty of phrase, the saltiness of words. Cut adrift from the truth and sincerity, the dishonesty of the writers of the Bible, the translators who wrote this dedication adopted the diction of second-rate politicians who have a weather eye open for the safety of their jobs. The dedication is as stilted a piece of writing as may be found in the more stilted writers of that period.

The translation of the Bible was of course a political matter. England had been Protestant for some time but it had not yet completely "gotten" Protestantism. The Church of England was what today would be called a political party. What could strengthen it in a political way? King James could see a clever political move as well as the next man. Translate the Bible, get the religious faction of the country back of him.

The dedication opens with a paragraph in which the translators humbly thank God because He has made the succession secure after the death of Elizabeth. The reference is unashamedly political, aside from the painfully pious phrasing, it might have been written by members of Tammany Hall. The rest of the document is more or less of a piece. Before the end there is even a neat slap at the opposite political party—the Romanists, in other words, who want to destroy Protestantism and who will doubtless pass severe criticism on the translation.

That men of that day were not scrupulous at heart the translation itself shows. How they could make themselves crawl in the dust as they do in this dedication before a king who was only a pompous fool is almost beyond belief.

Fortunately the translation itself was not in the manner of the dedication and for the reason the King James Bible remains one of the glories of English literature.

STIMSON MAY PAY TARDIEU VISIT EN ROUTE TO LONDON

May Hold Conference With French Premier Either on Shore or Shipboard

BY WILLIAM BIRD

Paris (CPA)—Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state, is seriously considering a visit to France, en route to the London naval conference, this writer learned Thursday. The Steamer George Washington, on which the American delegation will sail Jan. 8, is due to touch at Cherbourg, Jan. 16, before going to Southampton, where the delegation will disembark. Secretary Stimson might make a trip to Paris from Cherbourg and see Andre Tardieu, French premier, and still reach London without more than a few hours delay. Another suggestion is that Tardieu meet Stimson at Cherbourg for a few hours conference aboard or ashore, while the ship is at anchor. Ambassador Edge has had almost daily conferences with the premier during the past two weeks, chiefly about London agenda. Although Ambassador Edge has been acting on official instructions from the state department, the meetings with the premier have been most informal, and frequently at lunch. As Tardieu likes the American custom of utilizing the lunch hour to transact business, Edge and Tardieu have indeed, within the short time since the ambassador arrived, become intimate, or one might almost say chummy.

I learn in the highest French quarters that "Franco-American relations never have been better than they are today," and that while the American and French views on the London programme are far apart, both sides are delighted at the frankness and directness with which negotiations have been conducted.

Whether Stimson and Tardieu meet on French territory or not—the secretary hasn't yet decided—it is settled that they will have an important conference in London before the naval parley opens. The French delegation will go to London Jan. 18,

FALSE FIRE ALARM IS SOUNDED IN THEATRE

Ottawa, Ont. (CP)—Two hundred people many of them children, rushed from the Francis theatre yesterday when a young man shouted "fire" as he ran down the stairs from the balcony to the street. All reached the street in safety despite the rush to the doors. They returned when they learned the alarm was false.

Recalling the Paisley, Scotland, New Year's eve tragedy, the theatre stated every effort would be made to arrest the man who shouted the alarm.

leaving three days for preliminary conversations.

Although Ambassador Edge is not listed as an official delegate, it is probable that he will go over for at least part of the time, as a sort of liaison officer between the French and American delegations.

Frock for the School Miss

One of the most practical fashions of the season for the school miss of 6, 8, 10 and 12 years is illustrated in navy blue wool crepe with beige crepe collar and cuffs. The scalloped collar and cuffs are accented by vivid red taffeta bias binding.

Matching shade red bone buttons emphasize side scalloped closing of bodice. Red suede belt completes this jaunty outfit.

Style No. 2947 is made at a remarkable saving, for in the 8-year size it takes but 2 yards of 40-inch material with 3-8 yard of 32-inch contrasting. The bodice has a one-piece back; front in two sections. It is seamed at sides and shoulders. The two-piece skirt is seamed at sides and pressed into inverted pleats at either side of front and attached to bodice. It is now practically ready to set sleeves into armholes and stitch collar at neckline.

Wool jersey in French blue with collar and cuffs of blue and white checked woolen is very smart. Beige and brown checked woolen with plain brown is sportive. Feather-weight tweed in Spanish red tones with plain red woolen is very attractive. Orchid chambray with white pique, cotton broadcloth in geometric print in red and white with plain white pique, red and white gingham check with plain white linen, tan sports weight linen with brown and tweed-like cotton prints are attractive and tubular.

MRS. GANN ACTS AS HOSTESS AT OFFICIAL DINNER

Washington—(AP)—For the first time since she became official hostess to her brother, Vice President Curtis, Mrs. Dolly Gann will, on Saturday evening, preside at an official vice presidential dinner party.

Sir Esme Howard, the retiring British ambassador, who befriended her when the controversy over her social rank was at its highest, will be the guest of honor.

Mrs. Allen Roosevelt Longworth, the wife of the speaker of the house, who has been at odds with Mrs. Gann on the question of social precedence, will not be among those present, since custom forbids invitations to those outranking the guest of honor.

The function will be in the nature of a farewell to Sir Esme and Lady Isabella. Several members of the cabinet, diplomatic corps, the house and the senate are to attend.

At the height of the discussion on what measure of precedence was to be accorded Mrs. Gann, Sir Esme wrote a letter to other members of the diplomatic corps, of which he is the dean, which said that the sister of the vice president should be given the same social rank as is customarily conferred upon the vice president's wife.

Four tables of schafkopf were in play at the weekly card tournament at the Odd Fellow hall Thursday evening. Prize winners were John McCarter and Leo Schwan.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE © 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"JUST another of the little tricks life loves to play on me," Geraldine said ruefully. "What are you going to do?" asked Sue. "What can I do? If he can't prove I have the ring it will be a good joke on him. He'll have to pay for it, after all, only I'll be out, too. But the store said something about prosecution. The blame seems to be shifted to me. If Martin is clever enough to prove that the little love token was last seen with me he'll have another victim for his tortures, I suppose. But mean time, I can't get the pawn shop to come across. I went back and tried, but I could make snow out of soap bubbles more easily. I hate to tell what I did. If I do, and the pawn shop still holds out, it will look like a fake on my part to keep the stone. But—her voice was shaky—I'm beginning to be rather scared. I wish he had that darned thing back."

"I'd tell the store the truth," Sue insisted. "And he called a liar and known in the newspapers as the diamond landlith!" Geraldine asked. "Don't you see, Miss Innocent Eyes, that if I admit I had it last, I'm responsible?" "You don't have to admit anything," Sue answered quickly. "The last time Martin Clinger and John Foster saw that ring it was in the dust of the road."

"Will you be a witness for me?" Geraldine asked. "Will you, Sue?" "Oh, no!" Sue shook her head. "You have to return it to him, but while you're doing it, I thought if you could keep him thinking that it was lost, maybe he'd let up on you. I shouldn't have said that at all. But it would be wise to keep him on a wrong trail, if you can do it without lying."

"Deceive him but don't lie?" Geraldine shook her head. "Your conscience is hurting you this minute because you had a brilliant idea that is not dyed-in-the-wool. But this is mine now. As soon as I pull my back curls into a knot and get on a dress, I'm going to telephone."

Sue accompanied Geraldine down stairs to the alcove where the telephone desk stood, and waited, thinking she was calling Martin Clinger, but it was John Foster for whom she conversed, and then she said: "Don't you remember the tail spin the gleaming bauble made in the dust last night? If Martin Clinger refused to accept it when it was returned and left it unprotected, it leaves the matter pretty much up to him."

Her face grew white as she listened and she suddenly hung up the receiver without saying goodbye. Her eyes were smoldering.

"Sue Merryman, as a missionary, you're as much good as an angel that's such a harp. I remember now, too. I put the ring on before they pulled away and they both saw me. Now I'm caught for good. Don't look

Baked Stuffed Ham For Sunday Dinner Says Oscar

Oscar of the Waldorf (right) demonstrates how boiled ham should be gashed to the bone as it is prepared for stuffing and baking.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the menu which Oscar of the Waldorf, writing for Post-Crescent and NEA Service, suggests for your next Sunday dinner.

- Half a grapefruit.
- Mutton Broth
- Baked Stuffed Ham
- Stuffed Green Peppers, Baked
- Spanish Onion
- Mashed Potatoes
- Hearts of Lettuce, Waldorf
- Dressing
- Floating Island
- Coffee

Baked Stuffed Ham
Boil the ham until it can easily be skinned. Remove the skin. Gash the ham to the bone. Fill up the cuts with a force-meat of sifted breadcrumbs, a very little thyme, finely chopped parsley, a seasoning of salt and pepper, and enough butter to mix these ingredients to a paste. Brush over the ham with the well-beaten yolks of eggs, dust with sifted breadcrumbs, and bake slowly until quite done.

Or, if a hot boiled ham is to be served, and only a small portion of it used, the spaces from where the slices have been taken may be filled with forcemeat, brushed over with beaten eggs, sprinkled with breadcrumbs and put into an oven until browned, the ham already being sufficiently cooked.

CHURCH PLAYERS WILL PRESENT COMEDY AGAIN

"The Patsy," a three-act comedy, will be given by the second time by the St. Joseph players at 8:15 Sunday evening at the Stephenville auditorium. The cast includes Alex Hipp, Hilda Kitzinger, Hazel Hammen, Cecile Haag, George Theiss, Carl Kampf, Bernadette Stier, and George Haag. Henry Jung, Neenah, is the director of the play. It was given successfully at St. Joseph hall several weeks ago.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

WEE Nineteen Thirty, with a sigh, shook hands around and said, "Good-bye. I hope you Tynmites have fun, wherever you may go. I should imagine that your bike would be a thing that you would like. I wonder if you ride it fast or travel rather slow."

"We'll show you," answered Clowny. "We are just as peppy as can be. I ride up front so I can do the pedalling. I'm good! The others might do just as well. They haven't tried, though. I can't tell. Perhaps they ought to take their turns. At least I think they should."

"Oh, don't you worry," Copy cried. "We'll do our share upon this ride. As soon as you get weary at you need to do is shout. Then I'll take the foremost seat and give the whole bunch quite a treat. Why, I'm the one to show you what this pedalling's all about."

Then Scooty broke right in and said, "Say! Argument I strongly dread. Let's stop it now and start upon the trip we're going to make. The time is quickly slipping past. Come on, we'll ride away real fast. However, don't go too fast or our bicycle might break."

Then each one hopped into his place. A smile spread on their friend's face. "You look real cute," he shouted. "Now, good luck upon your trip. And quickly be run out of sight. Said Carry. 'Say, that lad's all right. Be careful, there, friend Clowny, so the front wheel doesn't slip.'"

The warning, though, came just too late! The front wheel, instead of staying straight, swerved round until the bunch were given quite a thrill. And then it skidded in the snow and Scooty shouted, "Here we go!" At that moment all the Tynmites took a funny spin.

EFFECT OF HOOVER BUSINESS MEETINGS TO BE FELT IN 1930

Tendency to Curtail Business Expenditures Seems Averted

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington. Billions of dollars will be spent in America during 1930 on construction and expansion work which might have been held up had not President Hoover forcibly warned industrial leaders and public officials against the danger of a serious slump.

The perilous tendency to curtail operations and production in a cautious attempt to guard against the inevitable recession after the stock market crash appears to have been checked to a substantial degree by vigorous White House intervention. No one can make an accurate tabulation of the money involved in the prosperity campaign to which Hoover gave the impetus, but it is a fact of great importance that various important industrial groups have joined with federal, state and municipal governments in stimulating outlays not only larger than contemplated but considerably in excess of expenditures for similar purposes last year.

BIG SUMS ARE INVOLVED
A total expenditure of $12,000,000,000 proposed by five large groups was recently estimated by the Magazine of Wall Street to represent a gain of 15 per cent over 1929, showing that the increase may be reckoned in billions.

The railroads plan to spend $1,000,000,000 on construction and equipment in 1930, nearly half of it in the first six months.

Public utilities figure on spending at least another billion dollars on construction and maintenance, more than 80 per cent of which will be devoted to construction.

Building and construction agencies estimate $1,100,000,000 in highway construction and predict $2,000,000,000 or $3,000,000,000 in new building and modernization work.

The federal government is speeding up work on a $300,000,000 program of construction and New York City is actively promoting one involving about $1,000,000,000.

Reports are not yet in on the results of various conferences of public officials planning to push state and municipal programs, but Dr. John M. Gries, head of the new Division of Public Construction in the Department of Commerce, says he is confident that the volume of this work will be in excess of last year's.

Two of the most active governors following dispatch of telegrams urging speed-ups from the White House are those of Ohio and California. The governor of Ohio called in the county commissioners of 83 counties and recently it was announced that business men and officials in and around Cleveland had decided to proceed with $100,000,000 in improvements during the next few months.

Federal aid and encouragement may result in the building of up to $200,000,000 in ships.

The Mississippi flood control program, involving hundreds of millions of dollars, will be speeded up by the government, which added $100,000,000 to its public building program, will also make a similar amount available in its program of co-operative highway building with the states.

TAX CUT ALSO IMPORTANT

In this summary should also be counted the $150,000,000 tax cut for 1930, for the money saved to the taxpayers will be available to business and individuals for other purposes.

While it is impossible to say just how much money will be devoted to the nation-wide intensification of effort toward prosperity, which would not have been spent had Hoover not acted in concert with business and other governmental agencies, it is pointed out that the $300,000,000 which railroads plan to spend in the first six months is six months of the 1929. The public utilities, with their $855,000,000 in new construction, say this is an increase of $65,000,000. And the 1930 highway construction is estimated by contractors to be in excess of the 1929 outlay by at least 10 per cent.

INCREASE IN CALLS FOR INFORMATION

There were 129 more calls for credit information during the last month received at the information bureau of the chamber of commerce, as compared with the corresponding month in 1928, according to Kenneth Corbett, chamber secretary. During December 923 calls were received, while the number equaled 793 the preceding December.

MILWAUKEE ROAD TO SPEND 150 MILLION

May Erect New Passenger, Freight Depot in Appleton Next Summer

An estimated total of more than $150,000,000, part of which will probably be spent here for a new depot, next summer, has been appropriated by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, according to H. A. Scandrett, president of the company. No definite plans for the building program here have been announced, according to A. W. Liese, local agent.

This sum includes the cost of 500 ore cars, 600 flat cars and 700 box cars. It also includes expenditures for new passenger cars, which will be built in the company shops and new work equipment.

"As maintenance and repair expenses afford continuous employment to our 50,000 employees, it is proper to include them in any figure representing proposed expenditures. The railroad's tax payments also are important, contributions for public benefit," Mr. Scandrett said.

The Prince of Wales is expected here for a few weeks of hunting in East Africa. His race to London from Dar-es-Salaam cut short what had been planned as a leisurely tour of the big-game continent.

Next year, assuming King George's health continues to improve, the prince plans to visit many places which his earlier numerical would have included had it not been so dramatically interrupted. Present plans call for the prince's departure from Southampton January 3, aboard the liner Kendworth Castle. He will bring with him not only his elephant guns but an air-

CITY MAY CHARGE FOR AID AT FIRES OUTSIDE OF NEENAH

Committee Will Study Availability of Ordinance Fixing Assessments

Neenah—The common council Thursday evening suggested an ordinance establishing definite charges for assistance given by the fire department at fires in outlying towns. At the fire last August at the Wilms farm located three miles south of the city, the city's share of the expense in making the run was $437. This included medical care for the three firemen who were badly burned when a tank of oil exploded. The cost of the fire was expensive compared to what it realized from it. The proposed ordinance was recommended by Alderman William Schmidt, and was referred to the committee on fire department with the attorney for a report at the next meeting.

An ordinance was suggested prohibiting parking cars along streets crossed by the Soo line, within 100 or 100 feet from the crossings. Danger of passing automobiles too close to the wigg signals, which prevents a clear vision of the signals for motorists, was noted. Some objection to such an ordinance was raised inasmuch as it would prevent property owners along those streets from parking their cars in front of their homes. The matter was referred to a committee.

A resolution extending the time for paying taxes to March 1 was unanimously adopted. Alderman Martin asked for a police patrol of the river and lake fronts to keep people off the unsafe ice. He suggested that a dead line 100 feet out on the lake be established. One little boy, a son of Philip Reimer, was nearly drowned Tuesday when he ventured too far on the river ice. Mayor Sande said he would discuss this with the police department.

WILL SELL BUILDING
Committee on streets, highway and bridges reported that part of the old vocational school building had been removed to the city stone quarry where it will be used by the street department. The remainder, which was at first suggested to be used for housing poor families, will be sold to the highest bidder.

Radio interference is being corrected according to a report received by the clerk. Letters from both the Wisconsin Michigan Power company and the Soo line claimed that these companies are endeavoring to clear up the interference and would be glad to have people report interference.

Alfred Bishop, superintendent of the poor department, in her annual report stated that $4 city families had been taken care of during the year, as well as 14 county charges. In some cases medical aid, hospital care, both state and county, and sunny view sanatorium patients had been taken care. In one case a widow and six children had received $65. It was found that home environments were responsible for the wayward girls who came under the department's supervision. Thanksgiving baskets purchased through the S. A. Cook fund were given to 56 families, and Christmas cheer was provided through the poor department by individual charity to 60 people.

An official headlight testing station is to be designed following an investigation by the attorney and the police department. Monthly reports of the police, poor and justice of the peace departments were presented and referred to the attorney. Bills amounting to $31,124.63 were approved.

OTHER PLANE ESCAPES

Turner, five hundred feet below the doomed camera planes, wheeled his ship well into the clear before the shrieking wreckage plunged by. "I saw the planes," White said, "one of which was settling, came together. Their wing tips touched. Then the wings telescoped and the cabins crushed together. There was an explosive flash, and bodies were hurled out. The flaming ships began to fall like plummet into the sea."

"No one could have lived in those planes before they struck the water. They were enveloped in fire. They fell apart as they struck the surface of the ocean."

L. W. O'Connell, head cameraman of the Fox Film corporation, for which the picture was being made, was stationed in a speed boat on the water under the planes, prepared to pick up Triebwasser after his jump.

PICK UP BODIES

He sped his boat to the spot, and picked up the bodies of Gold, Wells and Frankel. No water was found in their lungs, indicating they had died in the crash.

Reports from the fleet of searching craft that rapidly gathered that three other bodies had been picked up, were dissipated when all boats were called in early today. The bottom's reports were found to have been based only on the finding of the first three bodies. All others went down with the wreckage.

Mary Astor was prostrated when she saw the bodies of Gold, Wells and Frankel. The tragic news was withheld from her until every vestige of hope was gone. She is under the care of a physician in her Hollywood home.

Howard Hawks, brother of Kenneth Hawks and brother-in-law of Norma Shearer, screen actress, escaped death because a whim caused him to change his mind, after he had gone to Clover Field with the intention of going up in one of the planes. William Hawks another brother, Kenneth Hawks, recently married Edna Love, film actress.

J. G. Hall, inspector of the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, started an investigation. He is stationed at Clover Field, the airport from which the planes took off.

C. H. Tanner, president of the Tanner Aircraft corporation, described both pilots as competent men of long experience. The Tanner company had furnished the planes and the pilot for the crash. Tanner said the ships were in good condition when they left the field.

FEW FISH SHANTIES ON LAKE BUTTE DES MORTS

Menasha—The colony of fish shanties on Little Lake Butte des Morts is growing slowly this winter, owing to changes in the fish laws which have kept from several interpretations. It is probable that the present shanties on the lake will remain so long as the game wardens are satisfied no spearing of fish is being done and that fishing with a hook will be permitted temporarily at least. Perch have commenced to take the hook within the last few days. Previous to that time it was mostly pickerel that were caught.

COLONEL ALBERT JOAB DIES ON WEST COAST

Tacoma, Wash.—(P)—Col. Albert R. Joab, picturesque Tacoma and ardent patriot, widely known for his success in causing the conviction of the man charged with the assassination of George Washington, died here last night after a lingering illness. He was 68 years old.

In 1916 Joab brought a charge of criminal libel against Paul R. Haffer, declaring that Haffer in a newspaper article had declared that Washington was "blasphemous," a Negro owner and drank his liquor with the rest of them.

Haffer was convicted, sentenced to three months in jail and fined $125. After serving one month he was pardoned by the late Governor Lister and the fine remitted.

Jerusalem—(P)—The Arab Press today said a conspiracy to murder the Arab Grand Mufti, religious and political leader, had been discovered and was being investigated by police. Jews were alleged to be responsible. The police however said the reports were entirely false and that they knew nothing of it.

Fatalistic Philosophy Avails Burglar Nothing

However, Germany—(P)—The philosophy of a burglar, Wilhelm Debbler, was paid in kind by the local criminal court. The judge agreed that Debbler might have been predestined to break the law, but by the same token he was fated to be punished.

After the prosecutor had proposed two years of penal servitude, the prisoner said: "Gentlemen, you see in me the victim of an unwavering destiny. So-called freedom of decision does not exist."

"Every human action in this world is preordained. The causes are given by circumstances and the results inevitable. By my inclination of character, for which I am not responsible as they were born in me, by my upbringing, my experiences, I was fated to become what I am. If you, gentlemen, had been subjected to the same influence as I, you would also have committed the burglary."

"With this theory I am in good company. I refer you to Spinoza and Leibnitz. Even St. Augustine and later Calvin attributed all human actions to the immutable decree of destiny."

"As I have only done what I had to do, you can never punish me and I therefore plead for my acquittal!" To which peroration the court answered:

"We have followed the prisoner's reasoning with attention. Whatever happens is the necessity and immutable sequel to preceding causes. Consequently the prisoner by reason of his character and experiences was fated by destiny to commit the burglary."

"On the other hand, destiny also decreed that the court as a result of the submitted testimony, must judge the prisoner guilty of the charge of burglary. The causes—the deed and the law—being given, the punishment follows as a natural consequence."

When asked whether he accepted the sentence, the prisoner declared: "Destiny demands that I appeal!" To which the judge replied:

"That may be. However, destiny will see to it that your appeal is rejected."

MANY COMPANIES TURNING TO BONDS FOR NEW FINANCING

Prefer This Method Rather Than That With Junior Securities

By CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York — (Financial Review & Outlook)—The recent announcement by a prominent American industrial corporation, whose stock has been conspicuous speculatively, that it would do its future financing with bonds rather than with junior securities, emphasizes one of the most radical differences in the policy of borrowers in 1929 and 1930.

The movement away from creating additional stock in order to raise new capital and toward bonds gained some momentum in December and is expected to be increasingly active in the first half of this year. Preliminary figures of new domestic capital issues last month indicate a total of approximately $175,000,000 compared with about $180,000,000 in November and with $655,000,000 in the final month of 1928. Of this December total less than $25,000,000 was of stock. Of the latter a considerable proportion were of the preferred type which technically are classified as senior securities. There are no more mortgage bonds ahead of them. The falling off in December, as in November, in new capital issues by finance companies, which includes investment trusts and trading corporations, had a great deal to do with the small stock total.

ESTIMATE IS LARGE
Estimated amounts of new stocks and bonds by domestic corporations for 1929 run up to $7,800,000,000 with an additional $1,300,000,000 in the nature of municipal loans and around $800,000,000 of foreign government and foreign corporation bonds and stocks. Separating domestic corporation securities from domestic municipals and foreign issues, it will be found that the output of domestic stocks was two and three-quarter times greater last year than that of domestic corporation bonds and notes and that this ratio was established in the nine months to Sept. 30. Subsequent to that date the total of bonds has by a large margin surpassed that of stocks.

There is still available to corporations that were able to sell their stocks at a good figure considerable sum of capital in the market for call money and for short term securities. As this is required for capital improvements, it will be drawn down and reflect in a further decrease in the loans of "others" to brokers and dealers. The figure is large enough to play a part in the investment market and to postpone for a time the necessity of what at this season would be ordinarily be a movement toward borrowing in order to take advantage of the January reinvestment demand for bonds and call money rates for money.

REFLECTS OVER SUPPLY
The situation has additional significance. It reflects an oversupply of a group of stocks that has had an important influence in weighing down the general market for junior shares. From a technical market standpoint, it is felt that this condition will have to be cleared up before the stock list is again brought back to a healthy state. While banks do not accept to any extent stocks of finance companies as collateral in loans, they do make direct loans to clients on such stocks and on a considerable scale. Gradually such loans will have to be liquidated.

The eighteen months of preference for stocks over bonds had had a demoralizing effect on the selling organizations of firms and institutions that had specialized in the sale of stocks for many years. Heavy sales departments have encountered great difficulty in the last month in getting their salesmen to forego the so-called "force equation" of securities and to deal with them from the standpoint of intrinsic value. Salesmen have been emphasizing for so long the probability of an immediate rise in the type of securities they have been offering, that the public that they cannot adjust themselves to a slower moving form of security which must be sold on the basis of confidence in its long range interest power and its value as a principle of security. Dealers in municipal bonds of the same kind, who have been recently trying to sell these premier securities on a prospect that they may go up a point or more in the next thirty days, find it requires a period of reeducation in order to get from them the best possible price for the prospective buyer.

READJUSTMENTS OF TAXES NECESSARY IN RAIL MERGERS

New Final Valuations Will Be Necessary to Complete Plans

BY J. C. ROYLE

Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Washington — Taxation readjustments affecting every state in the union will be necessitated if the interstate commerce commission plans for railroad consolidations go into effect. Readjustment of the final valuations of every class of railroad in the country will be necessary both as a result of the O'Fallon road decision of the United States Supreme court and as part of the merging of the various units into the twenty systems, as proposed by the commission. These valuations must be taken into consideration in the levying of state and federal taxes, and, in addition, the new lineups of the various roads will mean a readjustment of tax payments as between the different states.

Reorganization expenses incident to the mergers will total hundreds of millions of dollars. They will necessarily include an extraordinary amount of accounting, the taking of stocks and inventories, inspection of equipment, complicated transfers and retransfers of stock certificates, large legal expenses incorporation fees, auditing of books and scores of other expenses.

PLAN REVALUATION NOW
The interstate commerce commission is already making preparations to meet the demands for prompt revaluation of the railroads on a basis providing the giving of "due weight" to cost of reproduction as of the date of revaluation. Under the previous system, the valuation had been fixed through use of the 1914 prices for labor and materials.

The amount of money involved and the volume of accounting necessary may be gathered from examination of that part of the commission's plan which provide for the so-called New Washash system. In the first place, it was made plain at the commission today that the designation of the system as "The Washash" is likely to be a misnomer. Under the I. C. C. valuations the Washash stands third in the proposed group, being exceeded in value by the Norfolk and Western and the Seaboard Air Line. Since Seaboard has only recently been reorganized and the Washash has complicated litigation affecting $18,000,000 in back dividends on its preferred stock, the Norfolk and Western would seem the logical controlling unit of the system. In addition the problem is still further complicated by the fact that at the end of 1928 the Pennsylvania railroad or the Pennsylvania Company, all of the stock of which is owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad, possessed about $25,000,000 of preferred and $100,000,000 of common in Norfolk and Western. At the same time the Pennsylvania company owned 48.8 per cent of the Washash's outstanding stock.

Under the old valuations of the I. C. C., the aggregate value of the roads of the proposed Washash System today is $1,209,191,544, exclusive of trackage rights over other roads, which cannot be valued in dollars. It is estimated that the new valuation under the O'Fallon decision will total approximately $2,000,000,000. Following are the valuations of those roads assigned to the Washash which have been tentatively valued under the 1914 scale:

HERE ARE VALUES
Western Maryland, $71,212,111; Washash, $106,625,000; Wheeling and Lake Erie, $10,112,500; Pittsburgh and West Virginia, $22,846,000; New Jersey Indiana and Illinois, $245,000; Seaboard Air Line $125,506,000; Macon, Dublin and Savannah $2,208,500; Atlantic and Northern Railway $8,000,000; Tampa Northern $1,115,461. Other roads which have been tentatively valued and in which Washash, it is proposed, shall have a part interest, are the Ironton Railway $396,000 with $108,000 to the Washash and the South Buffalo $1,699,300 with $203,221 to the Washash. Those roads which have been finally valued under the old plan in the Washash system are: Akron, Canton and Youngstown, $1,731,334; Toledo, Peoria and Western, $6,597,800; Ann Arbor, $11,157,272; Chicago and Ohio of Indiana, $9,311,000; Manistique & Lake Superior,

ENTIRE STATE OF CALIFORNIA IS BACKING OLYMPIAD

Appropriations Already Made to Enlarge Coast Stadiums

NOTE—This is another of series of stories written for the Associated Press by prominent sports leaders, discussing 1930 prospects.

BY WILLIAM MAY GARLAND, President, Los Angeles Olympic Committee

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Los Angeles starts the New Year in stride toward its preparations for the games of the Tenth Olympiad to be celebrated in this city in 1932.

California as a state, more than a year ago put herself solidly behind this great project with a substantial contribution to its finances. Governor C. C. Young some months ago appointed the California Olympiad commission to cooperate with the organizing committee and this commission is now actively at work. The city of Los Angeles has for several years been making preparations and providing facilities and equipment. The government of the city on Dec. 30 approved the ordinance providing for its part of the cost of improving the Los Angeles coliseum, where the games will be centered. The county government has already indicated its readiness to provide its half of the improvement.

The coliseum at present has a capacity of 16,000, reserved seats and the plans provide for an ultimate enlargement to 165,000 seats. The Olympic auditorium is ready with 12,000 seats for the boxing, wrestling and weight-lifting events. Plans are being completed for the Olympic swimming stadium; for the rowing course, the fencing arena, the yachting, equestrian, pentathlon and the other departments of the games.

The Los Angeles county government has recently completed a very large addition to the county museum adjacent to the coliseum in which the Olympic fine arts exhibits will be shown under direction of General Charles H. Sherrill of New York City, chairman of the Olympic fine arts committee.

The organizing committee is strenuously engaged in completing arrangements for all of its preparations and will have its report and all of its plans complete for presentation at the Olympic congress to be held next May in Berlin. We are confident that this report will be satisfactory, especially in respect to the items of reduced transportation rates, housing and other expenses that the Olympic countries will be spurred in their arrangements to send large representative teams to make an outstanding success of the games of the tenth Olympiad, two years hence.

William R. Smith, superintendent of athletics at the academy. General Smith was traveling with the Army grid squad on its return from California, where it was defeated by the team of Stanford university.

It generally was expected that Major Sasse would succeed to the position of head coach but General Smith gave the first official confirmation.

Blame Unclean Hands For Majority Of Infections

Madison—Unclean hands carry more infections to the human body than any other single agency. There is no more dangerous pastime for a boy or girl than that of attempting to improve the complexion by removing pimples from the face. It is not only hazardous, but the habit has proven fatal in a number of cases. Too often the hand carries infection.

The Educational Committee of the State Medical Society of Wisconsin in a bulletin today endorses the movement launched by the national organization warning people to keep hands away from the face. "In utter disregard of one of the primary lessons in hygiene and bacteriology, the average person insists upon using his hands as his careless habits direct. He complacently tests his face upon the hands, rubs the hands and fingers over the face or about the mouth, introduces the fingers into the nasal cavities, mouth or ears and squeezes a pimple or ingrown hair with the same degree of surety as if he were an operating surgeon whose hands were thoroughly scrubbed and fitted with sterile rubber gloves," declared the bulletin.

"Among girls and boys, especially during the adolescent period, the change in skin texture and hair follicle formation often gives rise to a condition of troublesome acne or pimples. During this period, youth should be rigidly taught the lesson of hands off the face. Comedones, or blackheads, should not be expressed or pimples squeezed. If expression of infection becomes necessary, it should be done aseptically. The hygienic care of the face at this period of life is an important subject within itself. Suffice it to say that soap and water vigorously applied with a rough wash cloth and the adoption of the policy 'Don't pick, don't squeeze and hands down' will eventually insure a good complexion not marred by bumps, scars and blemishes."

"The blood vessels in this area are large and numerous. The veins which carry the blood back to the heart from here empty first into the larger veins beneath the brain and then into still larger ones before reaching the heart."

"Once an infection of any size occurs in the butterfly area, two things may happen. First, it may remain localized, run its usual course and subside. Second, it may have been squeezed or tampered with and some of the bacteria forced out into the veins; then we have a condition known as septikemia, or usually spoken of as blood poisoning. The bacteria are then carried to all parts of the body. Sometimes, and as is usually the case with infections in the face, the large sinuses or veins beneath the brain become infected, and then meningitis may occur. If either happens, the condition is very serious."

COLLEGE FOOTBALL PROBLEM BETTER, APPLE BELIEVES

Disagrees With Suggestion That Gate Receipts Be Abolished

BY LAMUEL F. PARTON, Copyright, 1930, By Conn. Press

Lancaster, Pa. — (CPA) — Dr. Henry H. Apple, president of Franklin and Marshall college, Thursday sharply disagreed with Dr. Frank Parker Day, president of Union college, who in New York last Wednesday advocated the abolition of gate receipts and paid coaches in college athletics.

Dr. Day, discussing the famous "Bulletin 23" of the Carnegie foundation, before the National collegiate athletic conference had presented this major operation as a drastic cure for a dangerous situation. "There had been indications that a movement for extreme measures was growing among small colleges for a coalition which would remove them entirely from the 'big business' operations of college sports, particularly football. Dr. Apple, however, for many years been one of the most energetic opponents of professionalism in college athletics, and in 1927 wrote a series of articles in which he exposed and denounced evils incidental to scouting, pernicious influences of alumni, subsidizing of players and general over-emphasis of football during his many years as a college executive.

This series attracted national attention and was one of the causes of the founding of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic conference, comprising Gettysburg, Dickinson, Muhlenberg, Ursinus and Franklin and Marshall. This conference has enthusiastically attacked the supposed distortions and perversions of athletics as disclosed in the Carnegie report issued Oct. 24 of last year. Hence, as one of the most informed and energetic presidents of small colleges, Dr. Apple was in a position to speak authoritatively on the suggestion of Dr. Day, also president of a small college, and to comment on the possibility of a cleavage between small and large colleges in athletic affairs.

SEES REAL PROGRESS "I do not agree with Dr. Day," said Dr. Apple. "I have been personally active and concerned about the evils of professionalism in college athletics, but I believe progress is being made, and I do not believe that the abolition of either gate receipts or paid coaches is necessary. Football is a magnificent game and I think it ought to be preserved. I do not see how it can be preserved without gate receipts. I see nothing immoral in paid coaches, provided that there is no distortion which makes their work and their pay out of all proportion to its importance."

"Going back a few years, I think there has been very definite progress made in cleaning up college athletics. The tramp athlete, the ringer of my college days, has disappeared. Higher levels of scholarship are being maintained and a better grade of boys, for whom football does not all the entire college picture, are now matriculating."

Dr. Apple's articles of 1927 had constituted perhaps one of the most critical and challenging assaults on the evils of college athletics ever written by a college president. In view of this, he was asked whether a great deal of the progress to which he referred had not come in the last four years.

"Positively," he said, "I was frank in stating the dangers of the situation as I saw them then and I can be equally frank in saying that I have observed a vast improvement since then. Still, I am still a realist. It is not the highly organized scouting it used to be. It used to be that an ambitious boy, wanting to work his way through college, suffered an injustice by finding an opportunity for work going to an athlete. He didn't happen to be an athlete, he was out of luck. This is gradually being ended and colleges are lending a helping hand to boys more on their merits, with less stress of their athletic possibilities."

Asked about the reported possibilities of growing alliances between small colleges, Dr. Apple said: "Personally, I think it would be much better if colleges would play other colleges of their own class. There is tremendous strain and excitement in a small college playing a big one, with under the rules of the open game. A possibility of learning it."

"This grouping of colleges same what on the grounds of even competition ought to relieve a lot of the strain and do something to lessen the exaggerated importance of football."

"I am not greatly concerned about the sectional biases and the country times, although I think they might well be abandoned. It takes boys out of their classes for a long time and absorbs a vast amount of energy and thought which might otherwise go to scholastic work. Of course, there is educational value and spectacular interest in these trips, and I am not prepared to say that they constitute a major problem. Ordinary good sense and some sense of proportion ought to straighten out all these problems."

YOU CAN KEEP IN STEP WITH OLD MAN TIME

Yes Sir, this is one of those beauty advertisements. No Sir, we aren't offering anyone a new face—we have something far more necessary.

We are talking of beautifying your home. Take a look now. Isn't there at least one ceiling—with cracked or falling plaster?

Let us look at it and give you an estimate for renewing it with beautiful beams or paneling.

We can refer you to a good carpenter to do the job. He applies the big panels right over the old cracked plaster—adds the decorative wood trim. Then paint—and your old room is inexpensively renewed for all time.

KAUKAUNA CAGERS OPEN CONFERENCE SCHEDULE TONIGHT

Meet Strong Shawano Team in Initial League Battle of Season

Kaukauna—Coach Paul E. Little's Kaukauna high school cage team will play its first game in the Northwestern Wisconsin Interscholastic basketball conference at Shawano Friday evening. Shawano has a strong team this year.

It boasts a number of veteran players and recovered additional strength and new candidates. Reporters state that the team will be one of the strongest contenders for the conference championship this year. The other two are Neenah, champions of last year, and Two Rivers. Kaukauna will meet all three teams during the season.

The local team has been showing a decided improvement since its defeat at the hands of the alumni before Christmas. Shawano high school also lost a game against the school alumni. Shawano's squad includes about 15 men, most of whom hover around the six foot mark. The Kaukauna squad is composed of about 20 men. Fifteen will make the trip to the Indian City.

The probable lineup for the locals includes Miller at center, VanLeshout and Farwell at guards and Sager and Dix at forwards. Koch, who showed up well in the game with the alumni, is unable to play for the rest of the semester as he is ineligible.

KAUKAUNA BOY LEADS GRIDDERS TO TITLE

Kaukauna—Duane Curry, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Curry, 111 E. Wisconsin avenue, captain of the Submarine Division football team or the western coast, led his team to the coast championship this past season. It is the 14th consecutive year that the team has won the coast championship.

Curry, who has played with the Subs for five years, first gained fame in pigskin circles several years ago with his exceptional ability at ball carrying and open field running. He was a main factor in the many victories of his team. He enlisted in the navy in 1923 and first played football with the Naval Training Station. The next year he was transferred to the Submarine base where he first began to make a record on the gridiron. He was then moved to the Submarine division where, after four years of excellent playing, he was made captain.

He is Electrician mate, first class and received his papers about a year ago. He is on the submarine U. S. S. S-4. Joining the navy in 1923 he made a reputation on the gridiron during six years of service. He is known the entire length of the western coast. At the present time he is stationed at San Diego, Cal.

ZWICK KNOCKS OUT NEGRO IN 3 ROUNDS

Kaukauna—Phil Zwick, Kaukauna, featherweight boxer, knocked out Carter Reed, a negro, in the third round of a ten-round bout in Philadelphia Wednesday, New Year's day, according to a telegram received here by Jack Miller. The victory means a lot to Zwick, who is staging a comeback. Reed made a name for himself fighting a number of the best in his class. He recently fought Benny Bass to a draw. Zwick gave the negro a five pound handicap.

FORMER RESIDENT OF KAUKAUNA IS DEAD

Kaukauna—Mrs. Charles McMullen, Manitowoc, died New Year's Day at a hospital in that city. She was formerly Mrs. Blanche Glass and was born in Hortonville 43 years ago. She was raised in Kaukauna and was married to Mr. McMullen at Oshtemo, Mich. June 22, 1929. They made their home in Manitowoc since that time. Survivors are her husband, a step-daughter, Marie, three sisters Mrs. John S. Vandegrift, Manitowoc; Mrs. Walter Montgomery, Tracy, Minn. and Mrs. L. Sanders Oshtemo, Mich. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at the home at Manitowoc and the body will be taken to Hortonville for burial Saturday afternoon.

SAYS EARTH'S SOLID
Berlin—Prof. Franz Simon of the Physico-Chemical Institute, has caused a flurry in scientific circles by his assertion that the center of the earth is solid and not a molten mass as has been supposed. He claims the earth's core is kept solid by the enormous pressure exerted upon it from the weight of the soil on the outside.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Lloyd Derrus. His telephone number is 194-W. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Derrus.

UTILITIES GROUP TO MEET AT MARSHFIELD

Kaukauna—Notice of a meeting of the Wisconsin Municipal Utilities Association has been received here by Louis Wolf, city clerk. DON'T PILE MANURE ABOUT TREE TRUNKS

Practice Doesn't Help Trees, but Serves as Harbor for Mice

BY W. F. WINSEY

A few of the farm orchard owners of Outagamie and Brown counties are still trying to protect their apple trees from the rigors of winter and to fertilize them by piling barnyard manure high about the trunks of the trees. Experienced orchardists long ago discovered that trees need no protection against the weather and that the only service that manure, furnished, so placed, a harbor for field mice.

Orchard specialists say that it is just as practical to place tree grain and hay for an animal used in a stable behind its rear end, on the floor as it is to place barnyard manure about the trunk of an apple tree and to expect the apple tree to use the manure as food. Before feeding a tied animal or a tree the first thing to determine is where the feed intake of the animal or tree is located. In the case of the animal, this student can see the jaws moving and the grain or hay disappearing. In the case of a tree the study is a little more difficult as the mouth and suckers are underground and out of sight. Orchard specialists tell us, however, that tiny rootlets, underground, thickest under the drip of the branches serve as the mouth and jaws of an apple tree.

If what these specialists say in this respect is true, it would be better to scatter the manure in a circle under the extremities of the outer branches than to pile it about the trunk of a tree out of reach of the feeding system and serviceable only to field mice.

SHOCKING FOR FISH

San Diego—Some of the tuna fish being caught along the coast here are such "whoppers" that they have to be landed. Three men handling three poles with common line look on to a fish. Around the line is an insulated wire and when the fish is hooked, a current is switched on, stunning it. It is landed easily then.

EARLY PRODUCTION OF EGGS IS BLAMED FOR EARLY MOULTING

Chickens Should Not Be Crowded, Poultry Owners Point Out

BY W. F. WINSEY

Last Saturday, County Agent Gus Sell announced that poultry raisers throughout Wisconsin were having considerable trouble this winter with their laying hens stopping egg production and going into premature moulting. An investigation of six of the best managed farm flocks of Outagamie county showed that five of them are moulting and that the state-wide trouble has struck this section of the state quite hard. All of the local people are discouraged as egg production stopped just about the time the egg harvest was well under way.

When a flock starts moulting it is off regular duty from four to six weeks. Premature moulting is probably caused by starting pullets in egg production under six or seven months of age, or by crowding full grown pullets or old hens too hard. There is no cure for it, but increasing the grain feed shortens the period.

In cases where pullets are started laying before they are full grown and their bodies are fully developed, they are unable to stand the strain of building up their bodies and of heavy egg production, but usually break down and go into a moult before the season is ended. A very successful poultry woman informed the writer that this was the first year that her pullets started laying when they were five months of age and that in the first time she ever had a flock break down before the end of the year.

Another successful poultry woman who is caring for a flock of 800 pullets and hens, and is getting 500 eggs daily said that last year's flock went into a moult last August as a result of changing her birds from one coop to another. The same flock went into another moult in December. The same old birds have recovered and are giving a 75 per cent production now.

This latter woman advises increasing the corn in the ration to hasten a flock through a moult.

If it is desirable to start pullets laying in October, they should leave the incubators not later than April. Pullets hatched later than April should not lay until they are six months of age. It is dangerous to try to force over 50 per cent egg production in any farm flock, according to the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, as the result may be a break down.

As a guide in feeding hens for egg production, the owner should use Circular 141, "Feeding for Eggs," published by the Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

FLY PEST HELD DOWN FOR 10-YEAR PERIOD

Washington—There has been no general outbreak of the Hessian fly for 10 years.

Before 1919 the insect caused wheat losses running into hundreds of millions of dollars and entomologists had come to expect severe outbreaks at from five to seven year intervals. There still are disastrous local outbreaks, but over a large part of the winter wheat belt the pest is comparatively scarce.

Control is based on planting wheat late enough that Hessian flies emerge before it is in a stage to invite attack. The fly lives only a day or two and without young wheat on which to lay its eggs, dies without multiplying. The discovery was made through scientific research and careful application by farmers.

LONDON REVERES ST. JAMES PALACE

Building Designated for Disarmament Conference Is Among Best Loved

London—(AP)—Quiet old St. James' Palace which will be the meeting place for the coming naval disarmament conference is one of the best loved buildings in old London.

The history of St. James' palace is one of peace. For all its centuries and the red-coated guards that all day long pace up and down before it, it has never known shot and shell.

It first became the official residence in 1539, after the burning down of the palace of Whitehall. Queen Anne and all the Georges lived in it, and it was the palace of home of William IV. Since then the official residence of the royal family has been Buckingham palace, but the British court is still officially the court of St. James' and the royal levees are still held in the older building.

The 17th century gatehouse (the portion of the palace which is seen looking down St. James' street) is its most architectural feature, and the range of rooms to the west of it form York House, the London home of the Prince of Wales, which is now reserved as forming a separate building.

Inside the palace is a fine range of state apartments.

The language room or state room in which theenary sessions of the conference will be held is a long low chamber of dignified appearance, the walls of which are lined with royal portraits. It is none too large for its intended purpose, and the activities of the conference will certainly overflow into the drawing room.

Queen Anne's drawing room, and the throne room—the last of which is a particularly sumptuous apartment with a great white marble chimney piece and carvings by England's greatest wood-carver, Grinling Gibbons.

At least three big international conferences, including the meeting of the council of the league of nations in 1929, have been held at the palace and many gatherings of lesser importance have met within its walls.

000,000 to $2,000,000, Hopei being the third largest province in China.

At present there are but 700,000 children in school, says the report. The committee reckons that approximately $25,000,000 will be required to carry out the educational program.

It is planned to start schools first in the cities and gradually extend the teaching system to the villages. In the beginning the children of the well-to-do and the middle-classes will be considered for the various classes, and as more funds become available the scheme will be carried into the country districts and in the end the children of the poor will be given an education.

The report has been submitted to officials of the provincial government.

MATCHING FLOWERS AND BELTS SMART

New Ensemble Is Created by Worth of Paris to Add to Triumphs

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1935, by Cons. Press
New York—Worth of Paris has achieved the triumph of thinking up yet another ensemble effect in this era of ensembles. Among his evening gowns he has one of black lace—barely knee-length in front, be it noted—but with side panels that sweep the floor. The belt, at the normal waistline is of black velvet, and upon the left shoulder are black velvet flowers. To match the belt with the flowers, whether or not the belt matches the gown, is the ultimate just in smartness.

Out of London came some glorious costumes for the ski, skid, ice-skate and snow-shoe devotee, whether at Switzerland, Montreal or Lake Placid. The colors of these knitted suits, or suits of wool or galatrine, range from flaming orange to rose. Some are checked in two tones of the same color, and all are calculated with a view to high visibility against the snow. A Russian coat bids fair to become a favorite; it buttons down the front, is tight-fitting and has a collar fastening high in military fashion around the neck.

Many of the new vanity cases are delightfully light in weight and thin as a big peppermint wafer. One could be slipped into the palm of a glove, or into the tiny pocket of a wristbag. Cleverly ornamented with witheraway flower patterns, the creamy background of the top is matched in tint by the enamelled back. Such a vanity case is a boon to the woman whose wrist-bag is normally over-weight.

CONVICT DECLARES HE KILLED YOUNG WOMAN

Sacramento, Calif.—(AP)—Details of the alleged murder of a young woman near Hollywood were heard yesterday in a letter to District Attorney Neil McAllister from J. H. Steele, inmate of the Minnesota State Prison at Stillwater.

Steele, who asserted he was wanted here for theft of an automobile, claimed he murdered a young woman on Dec. 2, 1927, and he "would rather be hanged" than worried to death. A letter said he purchased an automobile in Fresno, using a bad check, and started for Los Angeles with a woman friend. "A murder took place between Bakersfield and Hollywood," the letter said, "and the body of the murdered woman I placed at a lonely place just seven blocks from Hollywood."

"If the woman is found you will find that her body is wrapped in fashionable clothing. The right pocket of her silk coat will contain a small coin purse of broadened satin and on the inside will be a silver monogram with a letter D, and a photograph of a woman about 60 or 65 years of age."

A copy of the letter, will be forwarded to Burton Pitts, Los Angeles, district attorney.

Jones Deplores Drinking In Society And Politics

Washington — (AP) — Drinking among the socially, financially and politically prominent, in the opinion of Senator Jones of Washington, an administration spokesman, presents one of prohibition's most baffling problems.

He expressed this view last night in a radio address delivered under the auspices of the Washington Star, asserting also that he had seen "far fewer senators under the influence of liquor during the last ten years than in the preceding decade."

Meanwhile, rumors gained circulation to the effect that the administration was formulating plans for preventing the diversion of industrial alcohol into bootlegging channels and that the Hoover Law Enforcement commission had encountered serious obstacles in its efforts to investigate this phase of the prohibition situation.

In his radio speech, Jones said that "one of the hardest problems to meet was that 'men in high standing, socially, financially and officially' do not obey the law."

"Instead of encouraging good citizenship," he continued, "they breed the very poorest and most dangerous type."

Referring to the same problem he said further on in his address: "Grant that there is more drinking today than heretofore among a certain class of our people. What class is it—the extra well-to-do, the class that should be the most scrupulous in respecting and observing the law."

WOMEN IMPRISONED IN CARFERRY CRASH

Manitowoc — (AP) — Two women were imprisoned in a small room on one side of the Eighth bridge here yesterday when the Pere Marquette ferry, No. 21, crashed into the bridge and through the Piling protecting the small building. The building was jammed out of shape and the bulk of the boat walled the women in the tottering structure. Workmen were forced to saw holes in the building to free the women.

The ferry was bound up the river to the 800 Line slip when it crashed into the bridge. Across the bridge on the other side, workmen were still repairing the damage caused three weeks ago when the new Pere Marquette car ferry, City of Saginaw, crashed into the bridge. Damage to the structure yesterday was estimated at $1,000.

CAN'T EXTRADITE WIFE DESERTER FROM CANADA

Madison — (AP) — Wife deserters cannot be brought back to Wisconsin from Canada under the state law, the attorney general's department declared today in a ruling given to Dist. Attorney Lloyd D. Smith, of Waupaca-co.

"The crime of abandoning a wife and minor children is not an extraditable offense between the United States and Canada," the opinion read.

The Secret of Mohawk Pond

CHAPTER 1
Peggy was at her side in a second.

"Feel on the wall and locate a light switch," she suggested, running her own fingers up and down just beyond the door jamb.

Julia, however, touched the switch first and they found themselves in a large pantry; from it they went into the larger kitchen. Except for themselves the rooms were deserted. Swiftly they made a canvass of the entire first floor, and returned to the dining room.

Returning to the first floor, they went outside and made quick work of closing the car windows and locking the doors.

Neither lingered in the living room on regaining it, and without mentioning their mutual desire to eat something, trudged upstairs.

"Here's the linen closet, Julia," Peggy said. "Make up the beds while I telephone Mr. Chase."

A branch telephone was in a corner of the gallery close at hand and Peggy lost no time in getting the Cornell telephone exchange.

"Hello, operator," she called as the exchange answered. "This is thirty-eight ring five, Miss Prescott speaking, from New Lodge, Mohawk Pond. Please connect this call as coming from here at 1010 eastern standard time. Have you done that?"

Thanks. Now put me through for New York City — Mr. Philander Chase, Spring 326."

It was 10 minutes later that a masculine voice answered.

"Hello, Mr. Chase? I am here at New Lodge."

Peggy's tone was low but every word was distinct. "The time is recorded at the Cornell telephone exchange, so that you can substantiate my statement officially for your court records."

"Any excitement, did you ask?" she hesitated—"I took the wrong road and got lost; that's all. Good night," and she rang off.

Not until Julia was asleep in the small maid's room next to hers did Peggy permit her thoughts to turn back to her entrance into her uncle's home—hers now, by right of inheritance, provided she carried out Uncle Herbert's stipulations. And why shouldn't she?

She sat on the edge of her bed and ran her hand through her curly hair. Was the man she had taken for her uncle's butler, but a figment of her imagination? Mr. Chase had said nothing of a caretaker, but surely one must have been left on the place.

Not to reside there perhaps, but possibly have quarters outside the Lodge—in the garage, or a nearby farmhouse. To leave such a home unguarded seemed incredible even if it was located in an inaccessible and little known part of the sovereign state of Connecticut.

No, it was entirely feasible that she had encountered a caretaker, who, for unknown reasons, had departed as quickly and mysteriously as possible. But why disappear? And how?

She rose and slipped on a kimono. Walking softly so as not to awaken Julia, she turned on the lights of the living room from the switch on the second floor and sought the dining room, lighting it thoroughly first.

Even when there was just as she had left it, even the chair she had sat in was pushed back from the table as it was when she rose in haste to hunt for the servant.

Going over to the chair, she stared at the covered soup tureen in front of her plate. Like the china on the table a film of dust was discernible on it. Very gingerly Peggy lifted the cover and glanced in the tureen.

Inside lay a cocked automatic pistol.

(Copyright, D. Appleton and Co.)

Who is this silent mysterious servant who vanished? Continue the story tomorrow when Peggy finds more puzzling questions about her uncle's estate.

DANES THINK SCHOOLS CAN'T MAKE REPORTERS

GENE AHERN

Washington — (AP) — Through the gift of the French village of Moyennemoutier of the ground occupied by the grave of Lieut. Thomas R. Plummer of New Bedford, Mass., a controversy of 19 years comes to an end.

Unlike most American families whose sons fell in France the Plummers strongly desired that Lieutenant Plummer's body be left in the little French cemetery where it was buried two days before the Armistice was signed and a few days before the Croix de Guerre awarded him by the French government was received.

This caused the unwinding of much red tape. Lieutenant Plummer, although 30 years of age when the war broke out, enlisted in the American Red Cross and was assigned to the French village of Moyennemoutier just behind the French lines. There he did such valiant work that he was beloved by the entire population of the village. They buried him with highest honors in their own village cemetery. His death was the result of unselfish devotion to sick and wounded French soldiers.

When the work of removing American soldiers' bodies to government cemeteries in this country and France began Lieutenant Plummer's grave was one of the few isolated ones marked "Do not disturb."

The government could not leave soldiers' bodies without definite title to the land or without assurance that graves would be properly cared for, however. After much interchange of correspondence between the town council of Moyennemoutier, the cemetery division of the quartermaster's corps of the U. S. Army and the family of Lieutenant Plummer, the problem was solved with receipt of the title to the ground occupied by the grave.

START INVENTORY OF LAW LIBRARY

Work Is Being Done by Clerk of Courts on Order of County Board

An inventory of the county law library at the courthouse has been started by Sydney M. Shannon, clerk of courts. The books of the library are being arranged and indexed and the new index will be printed and kept by Mr. Shannon in his office.

The work is being done on instructions from the county board, which passed a resolution calling for the inventory at the request of Circuit Judge Edgar V. Werner, under whose direction the library has been built up. Books are bought by the county board building and grounds committee at the request of Judge Werner.

Judge Werner pointed out that the library was maintained under the state law which provides that every man shall get equal justice without undue expense. He said that all the best law books are kept by the county in this library and that they could be used at any time by all members of the bar. This library makes it unnecessary for attorneys to maintain huge libraries and in this manner reduces the fees which attorneys must charge for their work, Judge Werner pointed out.

The U. S. S. Allegheny, a sea-going tug.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the seventeenth of a series of articles on the strength of the U. S. Navy, especially in comparison with that of Great Britain. The articles are of especial interest in view of the approaching arms limitation conference in London.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

In writing about the Navy, one ought not to forget the ocean-going tugs of the fleet, which are vessels much superior to the ordinary harbor tugs which we are most familiar.

Twenty-three of these fleet tugs are kept in commission. They are used for towing, minesweeping and lac sedan, seven passenger, was stolen about 6:15 Thursday evening. Fitted with accommodations for at Green Bay. The car had a tan body and black top and the license plate of from 25 to 40 men, they carry radio, excellent towing equipment, deck winches, windlasses and tower. It was dark green in color and had the license number D-15848.

These tugs are made of steel, have a displacement of 1000 tons and are 30 feet broad with a 15 or 16 foot draft. Their speed runs from 13 to 15 knots.

They cost about $400,000 apiece, although the more expensive ones were built for $641. Last year the operating costs for such craft ran from $25,000 to $120,000.

TOMORROW: Colliers.

STOLEN CARS

Police here received word Friday morning of thefts of automobiles from two cities near here. A Cadillac, seven passenger, was stolen about 6:15 Thursday evening. Fitted with accommodations for at Green Bay. The car had a tan body and black top and the license plate of from 25 to 40 men, they carry radio, excellent towing equipment, deck winches, windlasses and tower. It was dark green in color and had the license number D-15848.

RUBIO LEAVES DETROIT FOR VISIT IN CHICAGO

Detroit—(AP)—Pascual Ortiz Rubio, president-elect of Mexico, early today was on his way to Chicago after a 30-hour visit to Detroit, in the course of which he saw the Ford Motor company plant at River Rouge and had luncheon in Henry Ford's home.

The president-elect and members of his party attended a theatrical performance here last night, rounding out a day which began officially with a reception at the city hall.

No further demonstrations that staged by about 200 alleged Communists as the party arrived Wednesday night marred the brief visit.

MOST INDIANS VERY POOR DESPITE TALES OF WEALTH FROM OIL

Osage Tribe Only One With Good Income and That Is Declining

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two articles by Rodney Dutcher reviewing the work of the new administration of the Indian Bureau by President Hoover.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington — Somehow a few marked exceptions to a general condition have given many persons the idea that most Indians are rolling in wealth. As a matter of fact, among 337,000 Indians at 82 federal agencies, about five per cent have money and the other 95 per cent are very poor.

About 90 per cent suffer from lack of sufficient food.

Tens of thousands of Indians, always close to starvation, are barely keeping alive, it is admitted by some of the Indian Bureau officials now trying to solve the problem. On the Pine Ridge reservation, where President Coolidge spoke and posed for pictures with some of the noble red men there is suffering almost beyond description in the winter. Many Indians are able to rise crops to tide them through the worst months, but those on some reservations must contend hopelessly against barren plains or parched desert.

ONLY THE OSAGES ARE RICH

There is a great contrast between those Indians and the 2250 Osages of Oklahoma who become known as the richest per capita people in the world thanks to the discovery of oil on their land. At one time oil leases and royalties were bringing as high as $13,000 a year to every Osage man, woman and child.

Officially, there are two classes of Osage Indians—the competent and the incompetent. When an Indian gets to attain a certain degree of education and intelligence the Indian Bureau declares him competent to administer his own affairs. In the case of other Indians who have money, the Indian agent turns the money over to each one as he thinks advisable.

In every community where the Indians have had any money, sharpers have preyed upon them, and this has been especially true with the Osages of Oklahoma. The Osages used to live in Kansas. They sold their land there in the nineties and the money was used to buy cheaper land in Oklahoma. They still own this land as a tribe and the money obtained from the leases they have sold to oil interests has been divided equally among them.

Thus they had no chance to amass the enormous fortunes which a few Indians gained by having their own allotments of land—as in the case of Jackson Barnett, who was forced to take 160 acres of seemingly worthless land after he had refused to accept any at all and later found he had the most valuable 160 acres in the world.

The government has done all it could to protect the money of the Osages and other Oklahoma Indians, but it has been badly handicapped by a mixture of state and federal authority. The state courts there appoint guardians for Indians and the Indian agents have to listen to the guardians who advise as to how money shall be turned over to their wards.

There is no federal check on what the guardians do with the money when they get it and some of them have done everything with it except turn it over to the Indian owner.

The high point of oil production on the Osage reservation has been reached and the value of leases is now on the decline, in the Indian Bureau's opinion. Last year, however, 16,629,000 barrels were produced from the reservation and the Osages received a return, including certain deferred bonus payments of $7,442,000.

GETS ADDED POWER

Congress this year extended the trust period on the Osage lands, money and other restricted properties until 1959 and also gave the Interior Department considerable more discretion in determining the acreage of Osage land to be leased each year.

Other Indians have valuable lands, but not many. Those on the Quapaw reservation in Oklahoma have valuable lead and zinc deposits and last year received nearly $10,000,000 for lease sales and in royalties. Other Indians in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin have leased more or less valuable timber lands. There are also rich farm lands on some reservations and although the government has tried to persuade the Indian owners to till this land they more commonly lease it to white farmers.

ATTACK LEGALITY OF EQUALIZATION RADIO AMENDMENT

Former Advisors of Commission Claim Measure Can't Be Followed to Letter

BY ROBERT LACK

Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Washington —(AP)— In their first radio case since leaving public office, Bethuel M. Webster, Jr., and Paul M. Segal, attack their governmental alma mater and the radio law in its most vulnerable spot—the Davis equalization amendment.

The lawyers, who resigned Dec. 15 as general counsel and assistant general counsel, respectively of the radio commission, challenge that agency's interpretation of the celebrated Davis amendment, which requires fair and equitable distribution of broadcasting facilities among the states based on population.

Specifically, Webster and Segal attack the mathematical quota system adopted by the commission, under which each state is listed as entitled to a certain percentage of the national facilities. They raise the contention that the commission has acted in contravention of the intent of the amendment in a formal motion filed with the commission. The motion seeks reconsideration by the commission of the application for a new regional station by W. O. Ansley, Jr., of Abilene, Tex., which has been designated for a hearing.

QUESTION LEGALITY

The motion tenders for the first time question the legality of the quota system. This system, they say, is contrary to the intention of the Davis amendment. The language of this amendment, they argue, specifies that the people of all of the five radio zones are entitled to equality of radio reception and that the allocation of licenses shall be equitable.

In the case in point, they say the commission must consider the tremendous area of Texas for which the new regional station is proposed.

"Equality of service for that area is impossible if Texas is restricted to its purely mathematical share of facilities, according to population," they assert. "More and larger stations are required to serve the listeners of a large state than to serve an equal number of listeners in a smaller one."

Should the commission, after the forthcoming hearing of the Texas applicant, deny him the right to erect a new station in Texas, then an appeal to the court of appeals here, would be in order.

It is pointed out that the consideration of state areas in connection with population, would, if consistent with the statutes, operate to alleviate many of the commission's difficulties with small states under their mathematical quota, such as Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Jersey.

There are indications that congress will discuss the Davis amendment, because of the antagonism it has aroused in states which are under their broadcasting quotas. It is considered a virtual certainty that a fight will be made to eliminate the provision entirely.

56 ELECTRICAL PERMITS ISSUED IN DECEMBER

Fifty-six electrical permits were issued by Louis Luebke, electrical inspector, during December. The number issued during November was 52. Since the institution in October of the new building code, providing for the issuance of electrical permits, 201 permits have been granted for wiring and the installation of electrical equipment.

Inasmuch as the last three months of the year represent the duller period of the year for electrical wiring, Mr. Luebke expects that the permits for 1930 will reach the 2,000 mark.

During 1929 223 certificates authorizing the Wisconsin Michigan Power company to give service were issued by the electrical inspector.

"NEW KONJOLA IS BEST TONIC I HAVE FOUND"

Young Davenport Lady Tells How Master Medicine Increased Her Vitality

MISS PEARL HUSKISSON

"This new Konjola is the best tonic I ever found," said Miss Pearl Huskisson, 715½ West Second Street, Davenport. "I value good health very highly and just before I started taking Konjola, I was not feeling like myself. I suffered from indigestion ever now and then. I had a tired, nervous feeling and felt that if I did not do something to correct it, it might lead to worse trouble."

The enthusiastic endorsements of Konjola led me to give it a trial. I found it to be a wonderful medicine and tonic; Konjola freed me completely of indigestion in a very short time and made my appetite much better. That tired, nervous feeling is completely gone, and I really never felt better in my life. I am glad to endorse this medicine, because it proved its merit to me."

Konjola is sold in Appleton at Schmitt Bros. drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.
